LANDON HITS RELIEF SETUP OF NEW DEAL

PROPOSES LIBERAL STATE AND FEDERAL PLAN

Cleveland, Oct 12 (AP)—A "liberal" relief program built on federal cash grants and state administration was proposed by Gov. Alf M. Landon tonight to replace the new deal rule which he termed a "national scandal" and "disgrace."

He said the Roosevelt administration had diverted relief money to building "a shameless political machine."

Even worse, the governor said, was its "record of miserable failure" in the duties of administering relief.

Standing in the big public auditorium where the Republican convention nominated him for the presidency four months ago, the Kansas governor presented his personal elaboration of the relief plank in that convention's platform.

Get Rid Of Waste

"The first thing is to get rid of waste, extravagance and politics in the administration of relief," Landon said. "We must have a common sense, workable solution. x x x

"The first step in building an intelligent system for handling relief is to find out the facts. That the Republican party proposes to do. x x x

"The Republican party as a major reform proposes to return the administration of relief to the states. It will then be possible for the communities themselves to determine just what form relief should take. They will determine what, if any, work relief projects will be started or continued. x x x

"At the same time the federal government must continue to give financial aid, through the states. We intend to establish a system of federal grant-in-aid to the states. We shall ask that the states qualify by complying with certain reasonable conditions.

"The first x x x is that a fair proportion of the total relief burden shall be contributed by the state and local governments. x x x the second is that all who are engaged in the administration of relief must be selected on a basis of merit and fitness. x x x the third is that encouragement be given to those who are trying to become self supporting. This is of primary importance. Today there is little incentive for a man on relief to take a private job. x x x

Opposes Relief Labor

"If I am elected, we will provide an efficient employment service x x x which will bridge the gap between the relief rolls and a reviving industry willing to play its part in the movement for recovery.

"The Republican party proposes further that federal public works shall be undertaken only on their merits and shall not be confused with the administration of relief.

Floods In Philippines Follow Typhoon And Cause Much Damage

BULLETIN

Tokyo, Oct. 13 (Tuesday) (AP)—A typhoon, originating in the Bonin Islands, south of Japan, was moving slowly in a northeasterly direction today, and it was feared it might strike the Japanese coast tonight.

Believing the storm might sweep over central Japan, the the government warned all shipping.

The 1,778-ton Japanese freighter Manyei Maru, with a crew of 34, was stranded in a dangerous position near Shimizu, a city west of Yokohoma and southwest of Tokyo. H'gh seas made a rescue almost impossible for the present.

Manila, P. I., Oct. 12 (AP)—Floods intensified tonight the horrors of a destructive typhoon that swept five provinces of the Philippine archipelago, killing at least 310 persons, leaving hundreds of others unaccounted for, and isolating whole districts.

Swollen streams in the central provinces of Luzon island, directly north of Manila, carried bodies of men and animals, interspersed with the wreckage of numerous frail Nipa huts and other floatsam. Trees in the lowlands were dotted with refugees.

While these hundreds waited for food and rescue from the Red Cross, the Philippine constabulary and citizen volunteers, populations of other villages hastily strengthened weakened dykes that threatened to collapse and flood larger areas.

The typhoon swept over Luzon for 40 hours Friday and Saturday, whirled seaward and then passed over the island again Sunday. Today it was extending its destruction in Isabela province to the nothwest, isolating the province.

A new distrubance was reported moving in the general direction of the islands from a spot approximately 400 miles east of northern Luzon. Weather forecasters estimated the new typhoon would miss the Philippines but probably would strike southern Japan.

Damage Near Manila

Damage was worst in Nueva Ecija province, within a hundred miles of Manila. In the provincial capital of Cabanatuan, which has a population of 15,000, 82 bodies were recovered. An official estimate said the toll might mount to 120. Swift flood waters lapped six and seven feet deep at the suburbs of the city.

The largest single disaster reported was at Bangabon, near Cabanatuan in Nueva Ecija. There the Pampanga river roared from its banks and 200 mill workers were reported drowned.

While the typhoon spread destruction in northern inland provinces, winds and high seas harried shipping in the central archipelago, hundreds of miles to the south.

The 500 ton vessel Sugbu of Cebu, was disabled and abandoned. Some of the crew were rescued by a sailboat, but fate of the balance of the crew and passengers was not learned. Small inter-island craft raced to harbors.

The Manila Tribune compiled a death list of the typhoon, which it said was the most deadly ever to strike the Philippines. The Tribune placed the total known dead at 310 and said most of the casualties were in Nueva Ecija.

The total dead and injured and the damage cannot be determined definitely until floods subside and communications are restored. The national relief commission was called into emergency session by President Manuel Quezon today and an aerial survey was decided upon.

PLAN CAMP ON ISLE ROYALE

100 Volunteers to Clear Fire Debris During Winter Months

Washington, Oct. 12. (AP)—Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work, called for 100 CCC camp volunteers today to spend five winter months on lonely Isle Royale in Lake Superior clearing away the debris of a summer forest fire.

From mid-December to early May the volunteers will be virtually prisoners on the heavily wooded island 25 miles off Houghton, Mich., with no contact with the outside world except radio and periodic visits of an airplane to drop supplies.

Civilian conservation corps officials said the volunteers would be picked from a corps of 300 CCC men now on the island and placed under the direct supervision of the National Park Service.

Their task will be to cut down and burn trees now in danger of falling and creating a new fire hazard for next summer. The disastrous blaze of last summer burned over 32,000 acres of the island which the government is developing as a unit of the National Park system.

The volunteer CCC workers will live in an abandoned lumber camp, and most of their supplies will be sent to the island from Houghton before winter closes in about mid-December.

Fifteen miles of ice usually surround Isle Royale, making it impossible for any winter ship traffic to reach it.

Fechner said the job of burning undermined timber had to be done during the winter because it was too great a hazard to undertake during the open season when the timber and undergrowth were dry.

Murphy Says No Working Man Can Ride With Landon

Adrian, Mich., Oct. 12 (AP)—Frank Murphy, Democratic candidate for governor, said in a speech heer today that a list of persons invited to board Gov. Alf M. Lando's special training in Michigan "reads like a roster of the manufacturers and employers association."

He said that "no representative of the working man or the average man or woman" was invited to ride with the Republican presidential nominee.

Attacking the administration of Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, Murphy asserted that "Frank D. McKay (of Grand Rapids) has a hand in every contract that goes out of Lansing."

BOAT IS SAFE

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 12 (AP)—Coast guard headquarters here announced today that a message had been received at San Pedro stating the crew of the stricken fishing boat San Lucas had arrived safely at San Jose, Lower California. The crew abandoned ship as a result of a flooded engine room, it was said.

SPANISH GOV'T FORCE TRAPPED

Caught In Wooded Area By Three Columns of Insurgents

Burgos, Spain, Oct. 12 (AP)—A government force attempting to recapture San Martin de Valdelglisias was trapped tonight in a heavily wooded region three miles from the town by three columns of insurgents.

Insurgent officers here said the government soldiers could not advance and that the insurgents had cut off any avenue of retreat.

(An insurgent radio broadcast from Seville claimed that their forces at San Martin had killed or wounded 500 government fighters. The broadcaster also charged the government had killed 300 hostages before fleeing from the town).

Government airplanes bombarded insurgents trying to consolidate their positions in the region, but were driven off by anti-aircraft batteries.

The insurgent commanders were concentrating troops for a drive on Madrid, which they hope to occuy within 10 days.

The concentration was speeded both because of a Soviet threat of possible aid to the Madrid government and the unusually early approach of winter weather.

The insurgents were massing in the mountains west of Madrid, and on the Avila and Toledo fronts. Their officers were encouraged by the occupation of Cerberos, mountain town which controls Madrid's electric supply, and by the capture of two towns—Villa-Harta and Esplel—about 20 miles northwest of Cordoba.

Brisk fighting in heavy rains was reported in several sectors.

MINIMUM PAY LAW ILLEGAL, COURT RULES

SUPREME ARBITERS BEGIN NEW TERM AT WASHINGTON

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—In its first business session of the term, the supreme court today stood pat on its invalidation of the New York minimum wage law for women and agreed to review an appeal from a decision holding a similar statute in the state of Washington was constitutional.

The appeal on the Washington law was made by opponents of the statute, and so the court's action was what they wanted. But at the same time it will grant advocates of such legislation another chance to convince the high tribunal of its constitutionality.

In all, the court acted on 295 appeals today, consenting to review six disputes involving New Deal legislation and declining to pass on three others. In addition, it not only refused to rehear the New York case, but also declined to reconsider its five to four ruling last May holding unconstitutional the federal municipal bankruptcy law to help cities reduce their indebtedness.

Department Satisfied

Major New Deal rulings involved the railway labor act, the Wagner labor law, the public utility holding company act, the silver profits tax, and the revised Frazier-Lemke farm mortage moratorium law.

Justice department officials expressed "great satisfaction" with the court's rulings. They said the government's percentage of granted requests was "the best in many years."

Chief interest today, however, centered on the minimum wage law, because the court's 5 to 4 decision that the New York statute was unconstitutional had echoed into the presidential campaign.

It was this decision last June that drew from President Roosevelt a statement that the court had established a no man's land in which neither the federal nor the state governments could act.

In its rulings today, the court gave no explanation of its actions. On each of the 295 cases, it merely noted that appeals for review had been "granted" or "denied." The court agreed to review 57; declined to pass 224, and refused 14 petitions for reconsideration of last term's decisions.

Litagations Accepted

New Deal litigation the justices consented to hear argued involved:

Whether the government can hold up rulings by lower courts on validity of the public utility holding company act until it obtains a final decision by the supreme court on the legislation in its action it brought against the Electric Bond and Share company. The court of appeals for the District of Columbia ruled against the government.

A 50 per cent tax on silver profits in connection with the silver purchase act. The court of claims held the tax unconstitutional in a case filed by Percy K. Hudson of New York.

Provisions of the railway labor act authorizing collective bargaining between representatives of employes and the railroads. The act, amended in 1934, was held constitutional by the fourth circuit court of appeals in a dispute between the Virginian railway and some of its employes.

The 1934 legislation authorizing the president to embargo sale of arms to Bolivia and Paraguay for their Chaco war. The southern New York federal district court held the statute was an invalid delegation of legislative power to the executive.

The 1935 Ashurst-Sumners act forbidding transportation of prison-made goods into states that bar their sale and requiring that such products be labeled as convict-manufactured. The sixth circuit court of appeals upheld the act in a case brought by the Kentucky Whip and Collar company, which manufactured leather goods at the Eddyville, Ky., state penitentiary.

A dispute between the Holyoke, Mass., Water Power company and the American Writing Paper company of Massachusetts, over whether rental of water power rights in the Connecticut river should be paid the former in gold or its equivalent in devalued currency. The

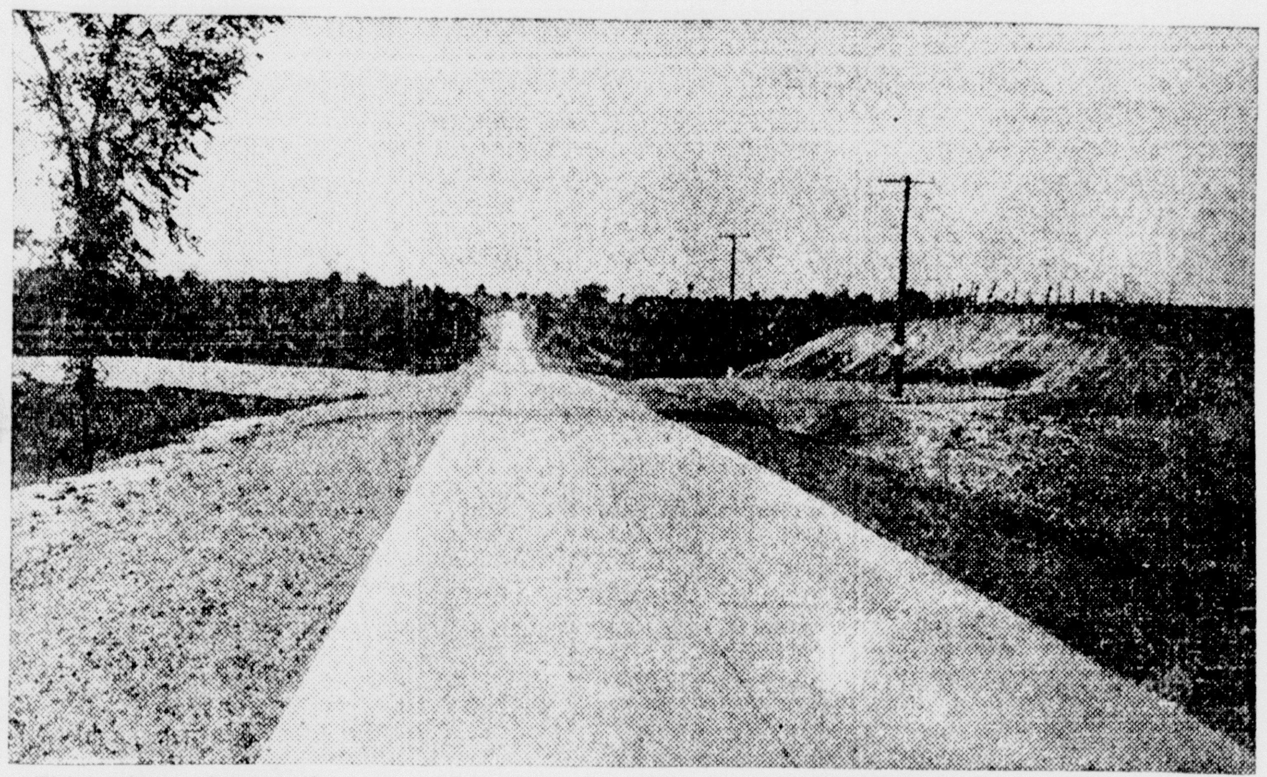
ENDORSES BORAH

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 12 (AP)—The Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, share-the-wealth leader and campaigner for the Union party's presidential ticket, in an interview today endorsed Sen. William E. Borah for reelection in Idaho and said "My one regret is that he is not a candidate for president."

New Pavement North of Menominee



This view shows the new pavement on US141, north of Menominee. The Menominee county portion of this route will be dedicated with a banquet at the Menominee hotel tonight and with special exercises at the junction of US-41 and US-2 at Spalding at 10 a. m. Wednesday. Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, will speak at seven different functions, which will feature the two-day program to celebrate the completion of more than 125 miles of concrete pavement in this section. A luncheon will be held at the Sherman hotel Wednesday noon, to be followed by an outdoor meeting at 1:30 p. m. in front of the hotel.

Roosevelt Says GOP Leadership Two Faced

Aboard Roosevelt Train Enroute to Wichita, Kans., Oct. 12 (AP)—At the tip of his 5,000 mile western stumping tour, President Roosevelt today compared Republican leadership to the "two-faced" god, Janus," and at the same time pledged the new deal to preserve a "constitutional, representative form of government."

He said Republican leaders had made a "pitiful spectacle" in calling the works program "waste and extravagance," that under his own administration, the nation had gone "around the corner" and that "our monetary system is the soundest in the world today."

The president spoke in Denver from a platform on the west terrace of the gold-domed Colorado capitol.

Police Chief George Marland of Denver estimated 45,000 persons were packed into the capitol grounds, perched on buildings and signboards and dotting the trees nearby to hear the address. Marvin McIntyre, presidential secretary, and Secretary Wallace estimated the crowd at 75,000. The chief executive left afterward to invade the home state—Kansas—of his Republican rival, Gov. Alf M. Landon.

Draws Applause

Looking out over the capitol plaza, past Denver's civic center and onto the snow-crowned peaks of the Rockies, Mr. Roosevelt touched several times on questions of particular interest in the west.

He brought applause when he spoke of conserving every gallon of water in western rivers, said the soundness of the stock raising industry "shall be preserved," claimed that federal policies had helped the sugar beet industry, and asserted that dollar devaluation and government purchases of gold and silver had helped to bring a "revival of mining."

But he got the biggest hand and a series of laughs, when he injected the reference to Janus into his address.

Standing bareheaded on the flag-shrouded platform, banging his fist and shaking his head in emphasis, the chief executive asserted "when Republican leaders speak out here, they proclaim their sympathy with all these western projects and promise you more and more of them. They cost money; they cost a lot of money.

"But when they speak to audiences in the east, they proclaim that they are going to cut government expenditures to the bone.

"If you will look in your history books, you will find that about 2,000 years ago there was an old Roman God named Janus. Janus had two faces. He faced both ways. He had two mouths. I need not explain that parable any further."

Repeated Applause

Immediately he asked whether his listeners were willing to turn America over to those "who in past years shut their eyes to the problems of this nation."

The throng standing before him under a warm sun thundered back a loud "No."

As the crowd broke in repeatedly with applause, he remarked; "Today it is a pitiful spectacle to see. Republican leaders call this great program waste and extravagance—for they are the same leaders who, when their own state or city or county was involved, were the first to run to Washington pleading for federal aid.

"Consistency is still a virtue in life but when it comes to a campaign year, consistency is a word that cannot be found in the Republican campaign vocabulary."

He called the work program and the administration's cattle purchasing program during drought periods "an investment to preserve America."

"Do you call it waste?" he asked.

"No, No." the answer came back.

For his final paragraph, the

NATIONS AGREE ON GOLD PACT

Morgenthau Announces Plan With France and England

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau today announced the establishment of "a new type of gold standard" by the United States, Great Britain and France, providing for the free exchange of gold between the stabilization funds of the three nations.

The tri-power agreement, effective tomorrow, does not establish fixed ratios for currencies of the three countries, and gold transactions will not be permitted by individuals.

Morgenthau characterized the new standard as a "second step" toward international currency stabilization, directly resulting from the "gentleman's agreement" on monetary policy concluded by the three nations September 26.

The chief effect of the new arrangement, he said, would be to take the power to trade gold out of the hands of "irresponsible speculators" and put it in the hands of the government.

Other Nations Welcome

Other nations will be welcome to enter into the agreement at any time, Morgenthau added.

He said the arrangement might be revoked by any of the three nations on 24 hours notice.

The primary purpose of the agreement, Morgenthau said, is to protect American business against violent fluctuations of the exchanges. He asserted it would have no effect whatever on the internal value of the dollar.

Under the tri-partite understanding, sales of gold will be made, beginning tomorrow, through the federal reserve bank of New York, as fiscal agent of the United States, at a price of $35 per fine ounce, plus ¼ per cent handling charge.

Tomorrow gold will be sold only to the stabilzation funds of Great Britain and France, but sales may be authorized to other countries as soon as they agree to

Federal Expenses For Relief Jump

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—An increase of 41 per cent in federal relief expenditures in the past three months over the corresponding quarter last year was reported today by John C. Gebhart, director of the National Economy League.

Writing in the Watch Dog, the league's publication, Gebhart said relief expenditures for the quarter were $618,774,711.75 compared with $437,263,583.40 in the corresponding three months of 1935.

These expenditures, he said, included CCC, WPA, drought relief and rural settlement expenses.

MANIAC KILLS THREE AND SELF

Tragedy Occurs Sunday at Farmhouse in Iron County

Amasa—A revolver in the hands of a madman wiped out a family of four persons here Sunday morning.

The dead are:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Oja, 49 and 46, respectively; their daughter, Mrs. Lulu Erickson, 23, and their son, George Oja, 28, the slayer and a WPA worker.

The deaths occurred at between 5:30 and 6 o'clock yesterday morning at the farm home one and one-half miles south of Amasa, on US-141. Authorities stated that George Oja killed his parents and sister and then turned the gun on himself after setting fire to the farm barn.

They believe that the killer, bashful and backward but extremely nervous, became mentally deranged, found the gun, a .32 calibre revolver which his father had hidden, and proceeded to exterminate the family.

Leaves Note

An unsigned note found on his person read:

"My health is not good. I am tired of life. This is the best way out. The county can have the property for funeral expenses. My father's life insurance can be given to his aunt of Ewen, Mich."

An effort to learn the name of the aunt was unavailing.

The note was plainly legible, but apparently was written with a slightly shaken hand. It was in pencil and on an unused invoice of the Sears Roebuck company, Chicago.

D. H. J. Larson, coroner, said an inquest would not be necessary.

Fabian Convicted Of Armed Robbery

Detroit, Oct. 12 (AP)—A circuit court jury convicted Warren Fabian today of robbery armed in the $10,000 holdup five years ago of Michael Crane, Wyandotte automobile dealer.

Four gunmen held up Crane in his home and forced him to sign a check for $2,200 and turn over jewelry valued at more than $7,000. Three of the holdup men guarded Crane while a fourth took the check to the bank.

A Wyandotte bank cashier identified Fabian as the man who cashed the check. Doc Bryan, now serving a term in southern Michigan prison for his part in the holdup, was brought to court but refused to identify Fabian as an accomplice.

Fabian, who eluded arrest for the five years, was captured a few months ago in California.

Sinclair In Favor Of FDR'S Election

Pasadena, Calif., Oct. 12 (AP)—Upton Sinclair said today he is still for the re-election of President Roosevelt.

He attributed a New York report that he had endorsed Norman Thomas to a misunderstanding of a vote-swapping proposal he made recently which he said was designed to aid the president in doubtful states.

"I have repeatedly explained my position—that I believe it is necessary to support President Roosevelt for re-election, even while expressing dissatisfaction with some of the measures he has taken so far," Sinclair said.

SHIPS SCURRY FOR SHELTER IN HIGH WIND

BARGE SINKS AFTER BEING STRUCK BY FREIGHTER

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 12 (AP)—A high wind, snow-laden and cold enough to be an advance guard of winter, lashed Lake Superior and upper Lake Michigan today, sinking a barge and sending freighters scurrying for shelter.

On Lake Superior, the gale reached a velocity of 38 miles an hour. The temperature dropped here to 22 degrees. At Petoskey, on Lake Michigan, a low reading of 30 degrees was reported and a strong west wind piled high waves over the breakwater.

Snow fell here and in the northern portion of the lower peninsula.

A pile driving barge, owned by the L. A. Bolduck Co., broke from its moorings at Whitefish Point where it had been doing shore protection work and drifted into Whitefish Bay Sunday night. Aboard the craft was Frederick Waldo, the watchman.

The crew of the coast guard cutter Nansemond, responding to flares sent up by Waldo, took the watchman off but the barge foundered after the cutter had taken it in tow.

The steamer Alex B. Uhrig, commanded by Capt. Wayne Pringle, struck and sank the fishing tug Helen B., of Naubinway, Sunday afternoon five miles north of Gull Island, in Lake Michigan.

The Uhrig rescued the crew of four and put them ashore at Port Inland, near Manistique. Felix Pearson of Naubinway owned the Helen B.

Beaver Island coast guardsmen rescued two men from the fishing tug McCann, Jr., which went aground on Whiskey Island Reef, near the island, Saturday.

COUNTY HAS SNOW

Service stations and garages had capacity business at Escanaba Monday morning as motorists came in with frozen automobile radiators or called for towing service to bring in cars caught unprepared for the sudden temperature drop.

Ranging around 50 on Sunday, the mercury went down to 20 degrees Sunday night, and some sections of the county experienced a blizzard of snow. The chilly weather Monday was accompanied by a stiff wind.

Partly as a result of the freezing weather, the heat value of gas at the city plant took a slump, and dozens of complaints were served at the city hall from owners of gas stoves which would not work. The condition was remedied, however, and the gas quality was back to standard Monday afternoon.

FISHERMEN RESCUED

Manistique, Oct. 12.—A fishing boat owned by Felix Pearson of Seul Choix was rammed by a lake freighter, Alex B. Uhrig, owned by the Reiss line, Sunday noon near Gull Island and was sunk but four fishermen aboard the fishing boat were rescued.

Detailed information of the wreck could not be learned yesterday morning but it was reported that the lake freighter hit the fishing tug, Helen B., amidships and that the fishing tug was smashed in two and sank almost immediately. The cabin was jolted loose, however, and the passengers clung to this until the Uhrig was able to turn around and pick up the fishermen. The four men were taken to Port Inland by the lake freighter.

The fishing boat and all equipment aboard was lost, it was reported, including a sizeable catch of fish. The loss included a quantity of fish boxes and valuable nets.

The boat itself had recently been reconditioned and a new motor installed.

Mr. Pearson was one of the members of the crew of the fishing tug, it was reported. Others were Chas. Frazier of Naubinway, Manny Poupour of Thompson and a Mr. Pizala of Fayette.

STATE GREETS 2 CANDIDATES

Michigan Prepares for Visits from Landon and Roosevelt

Detroit, Oct. 12 (AP)—Michigan was prepared tonight to welcome the Republican party's presidential aspirate, Gov. Alf M. Landon, with all the fanfare bands, flags and enthusiasm could furnish.

Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald will head the delegation of candidates and party leaders who will greet Governor Landon at Monroe tomorrow when he enters the state on a bid for its 19 electoral votes.

At Wyandotte a holiday was declared, and a parade will meet the train at the station. An addition of a stop there is expected to delay arrival of the Sunflower special in Detroit until about 1 p. m.

More than a thousand Detroit policemen have been detailed to line the parade route in Detroit, which will start at the Michigan Central Station and cover Vernor highway, Michigan avenue, Woodward avenue and Washington boulevard to the Book-Cadillac hotel.

Guard Of Honor

The American Legion's Forty and Eight organization will act as guard of honor for the Kansas governor.

Governor Landon will ride the parade route with Governor Fitzgerald in an open car. Following a luncheon of Wayne county Republican women, at which Governor Landon will make an appearance, he will go immediately to Dearborn, where he will be the luncheon guest of Henry Ford.

The principal address of the Republican candidate here will be made at Navin field at 9 p. m. Commissioner Heinrich A. Pickert said tonight he had assigned 300 officers to handle the crowd, and 25 state police will aid in directing the traffic.

Gates will be opened at 6 p. m. to allow the crowd to be seated early. A block of 7,000 seats was reserved for out of town guests. After all seats are filled, officials said, the field will be opened for standing room.

Governor Landon will rest until time for his train to leave for an outstate tour Wednesday which will take him to Lansing, Flint, Jackson, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, and Grand Rapids.

president reserved his promise to maintain a constitutional, representative government. "We have shown our determination in the past by action," he said. "You can trust us to prove that determination in the future by more action, sound action, action that is saving and will continue to save the constitutional representative form of government in which we rejoice."

He led up to his remarks about the two-faced Roman God with a discussion of monetary questions.

The treasury's bullion reserves, he said, are sufficient to redeem every dollar of currency far more than 100 percent. Yet people "for partisan purposes," he said, "spread a gospel of fear that the currency is not on a sound foundation."

"I tell you, and you know," he added, as the crowd roared, "that our monetary system is the soundest in the world today.

"I tell you, and I think you will agree, that we are around the corner. Private employment is picking up. That means that government expenditures for work for the unemployed are coming down. That means that the total of government expenditures will decline.

"Turning the corner also means that government income from existing taxes, without new taxes, is going up."

compasses and no heating system.

The ship, in charge of Captain George Stephens, left Sault Ste. Marie Sunday morning for Duluth but encountered bad weather near Au Sable Point. Both the ship's compasses were broken in the storm and the ship was headed into the strong northwest wind with engines at full speed ahead. At one time during the night, the motors stopped and the lights went out. During the course of the storm, the radiators fell off the walls and the ship was without heat. The crew was up all night and, when they landed here today, had been without sleep for about 30 hours.

The Fairmount put in at Trout Bay on Grand Island about 9 o'clock this morning and proceeded to Munising this afternoon. With repairs to compasses and heating system, the ship was scheduled to leave late this evening to continue its trip to Duluth.

COPPER COUNTRY HIT

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 12. (AP)—The Copper Country experienced a taste of winter weather today as a new season low of 24 degrees was registered her. Calumet reported a low of 20 early this morning. Automobile owners who left their cars out all night found frozen cooling systems this morning. Garages and service stations were kept busy filling radiators with anti-freeze solutions.

SNOW AT GREEN BAY

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 12. (AP)—A three hour snowfall hit this section tonight as residents of most of Wisconsin shivered under their first taste of winter weather this year.

The mercury bobbed between 24 and 28.

At Rhinelander, farther north, thermometers showed 20 degrees and ice formed on water in the streets. At Manitowoc, on the Lake Michigan shore, the mercury never rose above the freezing point.

COLD IS FORECAST

Detroit, Oct. 12. (AP)—The first real touch of winter was promised for Detroit and southeastern Michigan tomorrow, with a temperature near freezing forecast by the weather bureau.

A heavy to killing frost was forecast along with the cold.

The lowest temperature in the past 36 hours was 33 degrees early today.

Executives Will Talk Peace With Ten Rebel Unions

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor executive Council offered tonight to name a committee to talk peace with the John L. Lewis rebel unions.

In a letter to Max Zaritsky, president of the Hat, Cap and Millinery union, the council expressed itself as sincerely desirous of healing the breach that resulted from suspension of the 10 Lewis unions for "insurrection."

The committee, the council said, would go into the peace conference "without committments or stipulations."

Lewis told reporters he would not discuss the offer until he received it officially.

LANDON HITS RELIEF SETUP OF NEW DEAL

I am opposed to the use of relief labor, at relief wages, for the construction of federal public works.

"This is a broad outline of the Republican position on relief. So long as the need for relief exists, the necessary funds must be provided."

Landon's address, the second major speech of his lakes-states drive, climaxed a day of campaigning through northern Ohio from Columbus. He told farm audiences that President Roosevelt's Omaha speech on reciprocal tariffs "was more calculated to deceive than to enlighten." In Akron's armory declared for "a sane, balanced liberalism" and the "encouragement of American industry."

Greeted in Cleveland by Mayor C. Burton, the nominee rode in an open car through three miles of downtown streets lined with spectators and paid a brief visit to the exposition before retiring to his hotel suite for conferences with advisers and visits with party leaders

Politics In Relief

In his first detailed discussion of relief since his nomination, Landon said that "unlike the administration, I view relief as a temporary problem" whose solution must begin with forgetting "politics"

"Everybody knows there is too much politics in relief," the candidate said. x x x "it is a humiliation to the American people I am dedicated to the proposition that henceforth no American citizen shall ever again be put in the position where he has to sell his vote for bread. x x x

"Our hearts go out to those millions of our people who, through fault of their own, have been the victims of this debauching of relief funds for political purposes.

"But even that is not the worst that has happened under this administration. They may call it reform, they may call it national planning, but the ugly fact is the members of this administration have condemned one-sixth of our people to live in a separate economic world of their own.

"Isolated from the main stream of our national life, they have been catalagued, registered, regimented and controlled by a federal bureaucracy which promises them no future. All that they can hope for it the bare necessities of life. In this separate world they are deprived of the hope and opportunity that is their birthright.

"Surely it is our imperative duty to help these millions of men and women to free themselves from dependence on government. We must help them win back their independence .

ing sleet and winds heralding winter's approach the government leaders hoped weather conditions also might bog down the enemy's projected attack on Madrid.

Within the capital every man, woman and child was ordered to work on fortifications hastily being thrown up against the time when the Fascists should be at the city's gates.

Those physically unable to labor on the defenses, were ordered to devote all their time to the making of clothing and other materials for the men at the front.

The government fighting men reported to the war ministry that they had successfully repulsed many insurgent attacks on all sectors.

At San Martin de Valdeiglesias, to the west, counter-attacking government militia men were bombed by their own warplanes.

Tonight the government military leaders faced the possibility of completion of a prescent-shaped Fascist front around Madrid from Cebreros to Avila.

Fascist units were driving toward each other from Ceberos and San Martin to forge the last link in their chain arching the capital.

Michigan In Washington

Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

Why this large increase in enrollment of CCC men in Michigan? A jump from 3,935 to 5,187 men on the replacement program at the opening of the eighth period is quite a jump.

Tufty

Over in CCC Director Robert Fechner's office in Washington, it is explained this way — that private employment has left many vacancies; that those who have not actually secured jobs feel they should be scurrying around trying to find permanent positions; that several companies of men enrolled previously and moved to work projects in California have been returned to work in the sixth corps area, which includes Michigan. The number of war veterans applying advanced from 684 at the close of the seventh period to 1052, now seeking emergency conservation work.

Happily, it is added, employment opportunities explains the increase in Michigan—not the drought, as is the case in Minnesota.

The question of salary of the new Works Progress Administrator, Louis M. Nims, has not been decided, according to Washington headquarters. You see, his predecessor, Dr. Harry L. Pierson served, at his own wish, without remuneration—thus putting Michigan in a class by itself for no other state had a parallel situation. Probably the figure will be near the $8,000 mark, the salary of the WPA administrators in such other large Mid-western states as Indiana and Ohio.

Michigan spends $1.44 per year more on the education of each child in its public school system tha nthe nation-wide state average of $73.58, says the federal office of education, based on a new survey of the 1934-35 school year.

However the state does not make as good a showing in the record of salaries paid to teachers—the average in the state is $1,162 per year, as compared to $1,227, the nationa laverage.

The amount spent on new school buildings also falls short of the national figure of $2.64 per child as the report reveals that only $1.74 per child was spent during the year in Michigan.

The goo dold motor state of Michigan, believe it or not, has 369 blacksmith shops. All that is left of the once flourishing blacksmith and livery business in Michigan netted $443,000 in 1935, an increase over the 1933 receipts, which totaled $364,000.

The census bureau, where they collect the most surprising statistics about almost everything under the shining sun, gives forth this information in a new report on service establishments. Also it reveals that the 53 people who work for the village blacksmiths amassed $36,000 in pay checks last year.

And if you don't think Michigan men and women spend plenty keeping themselves beautiful, look at these statistics—$9,676,000 was spent last year keeping the master shaven and his hair-cut in barbershops and madame shampooed and curled in beauty shops. Over 2 million dollars more than they spent in 1933, too. The dry cleaning bills advanced by a million dollars. And a lot more people had their pictures taken—netting the photographers an increase of $137,000 in gross receipts.

Just one Michigan bank—the First National Bank of Manistee—is listed among the 42 receiverships liquidated during September by J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency today, October 8.

The Manistee bank, in receivership since December 12, 1933, paid depositors and other creditors 100 per cent principal with interest in full amounting to an additional dividend of 10.53 per cent. The total payments to creditors, including offsets allowed, aggregated $680,362, and the stockholders received $849, together with the assets remaining uncollected.

Springtime in Washington without the bloom of the famed Japanese cherry blossoms would be tragic. To avoid such a calamity, some 3000 Yoshimo cherry trees are now being planted in Potomac park, replacing the hundreds damaged by the flood last March.

Refuses to Review

New Deal litigation the court refused to review at this time involved:

The Wagner labor relations act, constitutionality of which was challenged by the Bradley Lumber company of Arkansas. Six other cases attacking the law have been appealed to the high court and it may agree—perhaps next Monday—to review one or more of them.

The revised Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium act, challenged by the Phoenix Joint Stock Land Bank of Kansas City. This was an appeal from a ruling by the western Missouri district court upholding the act before the circuit court of appeals acted. It may be reviewed after the circuit court announces its decision.

A dispute over whether four employes of a New York brokerage firm must testify before the securities commission concerning alleged manipulation of the price of stocks.

As soon as the action on the appeals was announced, the justices started two weeks of argument on cases they agreed last spring to review. The first formal decisions are expected November 9, after the presidential election.

INQUEST INTO FRAUD SOUGHT

May Reinvestigate Recount Squabble In Detroit

Detroit, Oct. 12. (AP)—The possibility that the grand jury may reinvestigate the 1934 election recount fraud arose today after a sworn statement was introduced in court that Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea told recount workers not to worry because the ballots would be destroyed.

Chester P. O'Hara, assistant attorney-general, presented the statement at the arraignment of George James, former recount worker, on charges of conspiracy in the fraud. O'Hara said James made the statement before him and William Watkins, state police detective lieutenant, in the Wayne county jail Sunday.

James alleged that as the recount workers were preparing to throw out as many Republican ballots as possible," McCrea told them:

"Don't you boys worry about those x x x ballots because they are going to be destroyed after the recount."

McCrea's only comment on the statement today was:

"The election is Nov. 3, just three weeks from tomorrow. More political bunk!"

Statement Admissable

McCrea is the Democratic candidate for Wayne county prosecutor in the forthcoming election; O'Hara is his Republican opponent.

James also alleged that State Senator Anthony J. Wilkowski advised the recounters to throw away Republican ballots.

Record's Judge W. McKay Skillman, before whom James was arraigned, ruled that James' 27-page statement "is admissable in view of the plea of James, because it shows the truth of the plea."

James, arrested in Chicago last week, pleaded guilty to three of six counts against him in the case. The three charged conspiracy unlawfully to mark a ballot, conspiracy to permit others to mark ballots, and conspiracy to conduct an illegal recount. Sentence was deferred.

After the court accepted James' statement, O'Hara conferred with Recorder's Judge Thomas M. Cotter, who conducted the grand jury investigation which returned indictments against James and several other recount fraud defendants.

Judge Cotter said he told O'Hara that the grand jury never had closed its investigation of the recount and added:

"The grand jury will sit at any time to take any testimony O'Hara may have to offer."

NATIONS AGREE ON GOLD PACT

sell bulion to the United States from their stabilization funds.

For two weeks Morgenthau has negotiated almost continuously with French and British fiscal authrities.

Secret Discussions

The conversations—many of them by trans-Atlantic telephone—were carried on with unusual secrecy. Several treasury officials followed newsmen into the press conference to get their first information on the accord.

Few American business men will be directly affected by the new system, Morgenthau said.

Previously gold could be shipped out of America by an individual or corporation obtaining an export license from the treasury. Actually, few such licenses were sought, because gold has been flowing steadily into the United States for many years.

No export licenses have been issued since the first tri-power monetary agreement was made September 25, when France abandoned the gold standard.

Whether gold will tend to flow in or out of the United States under the new system is impossible to predict, Morgenthau said. He added that he was "not worried," because America's huge gold reserves could withstand any conceivable drain.

Indirect effects of the revised gold standard will be highly important, Morgenthau asserted, to every business man buying or selling abroad

CURBS FLUCTUATIONS

New York, Oct. 12. (AP)—Announcement in Washington tonight of a plan to permit exchange of gold between the American, British and French stabilization funds was seen by Wall street experts as a further step to guard against sharp fluctuations in the foreign exchange markets.

It removed, it was explained, what had amounted to a technical ban on gold exports to either France or England, and this ban, it was felt, might have handicapped the stabilization authorities in their efforts to smooth out fluctuations, particularly should a sudden large-scale demand for either sterling or francs develop.

20 Land Cases For Seney Job Not Contested

Nearly half of the land the federal government is seeking to acquire through condemnation proceedings for the Seney waterfowl refuge project in Schoolcraft county a total of 4,531 acres, will be purchased for $6,853.66, according to action taken in United States district court in Marquette. Twenty of the 60 separate tracts involved in the proceedings are uncontested and their acreage was approved for purchase by Judge Fred M. Raymond.

The contested cases, representing 5,722.32 acres of the 10,253.71 involved, will be considered at the January term of court at Sault Ste. Marie. Testimony in the uncontested cases was presented here by William L. Towns, experienced timber appraiser.

The government witness said he based his price estimates on conversations he has had with men who sell land in the Seney district, on his study of sales of land and timber in the area and on his study of prices paid for land and timber in other similar sections of the state. Sketches of each plat were presented to show the ratio of timber, marsh and grazing land.

Lists Values Per Acre

Price estimates for the tracts in the 20 uncontested cases, Towns said, were based on the following values per acre:: Timber, $1.50; grazing, $1.25; and marsh, 50 cents. The value for timberland was based on the timber alone, he explained.

Included in the tracts in which the condemnation proceedings were uncontested by owners were the following:

2 AUTOMOBILES BURN IN GARAGE

About $850 Loss Caused By Early Morning Blaze Here

About $850 loss was caused by a fire which broke out in the garage at the O. V. Thatcher home, 618 Lake Shore Drive, 3 o'clock yesterday morning. The loss was fully covered by insurance.

A 1933 model automobile was destroyed by the flames, while paint was burned off and windows were shattered on a 1935 model sedan. A large supply of camping and boating equipment was also lost. The roof of the garage was badly damaged.

The blaze was believed due to spontaneous combustion in a paper box filled with varnished floor scrapings. Floors had been scraped in the Thatcher home about two weeks ago and were placed in the garage by Mr. Thatcher, who had planned to use the material for lighting fires.

The fire was discovered by John Harvey, Ogden avenue, who notified the fire department.

Hotel At Pembine Destroyed By Fire

Pembine, Wis.—Fire believed to have resulted from an overheated chimney destroyed the old Pembine hotel in Pembine Saturday afternoon with a loss unofficially estimated at about $20,000. The fire, which broke out at 3 o'clock, spread rapidly through the frame building.

Most of the furnishings were saved by the townspeople, who rushed to the structure as soon as the alarm was sounded.

Bits of burning wood were carried for blocks by the heavy wind and the threat to nearby buildings was so great that the city of Iron Mountain was asked for help. A fire truck in charge of Mike Scolatti, Iron Mountain fire chief, was dispatched to the scene but nothing could be done because of lack of water. The firemen concentrated on saving nearby buildings and put out two other fires with barrels of water. The truck was equipped with tanks of chemicals, but it was not necessary to use them.

The hotel, one of the oldest buildings in Pembine, was owned by the Bank of Hilbert in Hilbert.

Straits Bridge Project Still Alive---Merrifield

BY J. R. MERRIFIELD
President Mackinac Straits Bridge Association, Sault Ste. Marie

Enemies of the project for a bridge across the Straits of Mackinac—if there are any—are telling each other that the plan is as dead as a door-nail. It isn't.

There are really no enemies of the plan, but there are some who have not taken the trouble to study it, and who are in consequence not for it at this moment. Once they understand the idea from all angles, they will be as enthusiastically in its favor as any member of the association could possibly be.

Every worth while movement has to encounter this sort of thing. We hold no rancor toward those who disagree with us. A like situation has developed time after time in Michigan and the nation. The parcels post advocates were denounced as the rankest kind of socialists, and the first man who dremed of an airship was pooh-poohed by his best friends.

Taking It On The Chin

The way of the pioneer is always hard. In 1848 the Upper Peninsula of Michigan was as far away from Washington as the moon. Henry Clay himself said so, and no doubt he thought he was right. If all the other Senators and Congressmen had agreed with him, the project for a ship lock and canal would have died a-borning.

It was the same when the first ferry boat at the Straits was proposed. Bankers and capitalists thought the scheme was the richest kind of a joke. The outcome made monkeys of the diehards, but they are not to be blamed unduly. Like most of mankind, they took the easiest way of thinking, the way which we call "let well enough alone."

But if the world always had let well enough alone it never would get anywhere. Without vision the people perish, and lack of vision today puts the Upper Peninsula at a tremendous disadvantage. When considered the rapidly growing traffic at the Straits—traffic that nobody dreamed of a few years ago—and when, in particular, we consider the heights traffic could reach if it could flow freely and unimpeded through the Straits bottleneck, the conclusion is inevitable that many people are as blind as ever to the opportunity that only a bridge can materialize.

A Friend Indeed

Our association is the best friend these opponents could possibly have. It is keeping alive an idea that is very much in their interest, if they but knew it. The day will come when they will perceive that they have been mistaken, just as the opponents of Governor Osborn were mistaken when he fought the compensation laws through the Michigan legislature; just as the detractors of the national forest movement were when they threw tacks in the path of that enterprise here a decade ago.

The bridge deal has had a temporary setback, but that is no sign that the idea is down and out. We have been knocked for a goal temporarily, but this is only the first interlude. Time is our ally. Every day, every month, every year, is making, the need for the bridge more manifest and more pressing. It must come, just as the locks came, because nothing can stop it. All the association can do is to help just a little the inevitable day when a bridge will span the Straits of Mackinac.

CONLON TALKS ON PROPOSALS

Assistant Attorney General Urges Rejection of Amendments

Munising, Oct. 13—Declaring that it is imperative for all voters to cast a 'no' on all amendments to be offered at the general election in order to safeguard the general fund of the state, Ernest T. Conlon, assistant state attorney general attached to the sales tax division, addressed an Alger County Republican Rally last night in the Rock River township hall at Chatham.

Mr. Conlon warned against any constitutional change in sales tax receipts, declaring that such a change would seriously impair all general fund items. He urged a no vote on all of the amendments to avoid any confusion.

Citing statistics, the speaker declared that 60 per cent of all general fund expenditures were directly derived from sales tax collections, and if this income were curtailed, it would mean a terrific blow to the budgets of such state agencies as the hospitals for the mentally sick, old age pensions, the schools, crippled children's welfare, penal institutions, and state welfare.

Mr. Conlon pointed out that the sales tax at present brings in nearly 47 million annually to the state coffers, of which approximately 12 million dollars or 25 per cent, comes directly from the food tax.

Further quoting statistics, he declared that under Gov. Fitzgerald's administration, half a million a month was being paid for old age pensions, three-quarters of a million for direct relief, and two million a month for the poor school districts. It was through the governor's recommendation, Mr. Conlon pointed out, that the legislature raised the appropriation for schools from 12 million to 22 million, and passed the old age pension law.

Mr. Jurmi of Marquette in charge of the sales tax division there was also present and spoke to the Finnish people.

All of the Alger County Republicans were present and were introduced. The speaking program was followed by a lunch.

The doctor escaped without any injuries to his person.

Soy Beans

A NATIVE of Manchuria has invaded the United States and is slowly working its way to the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, in the person of China's "Little Honorable Plant," the soy bean.

For at least five thousand years the soy bean has been a far eastern staple, the backbone of northern China's economy. Four million tons of these legumes are grown annually on the fertile plains of Manchuria, and last year soy beans put not less than $35,000,000 into the pockets of U. S. farmers, outranking in value rye and barley.

Attention has been brought to the soy bean industry by the action of the Chicago Board of Trade in listing beans for trading on that great world-mart. The first soy beans came to this country in 1804, and they became not a field crop but a horticultural pet. Interest in the prospects were awakened about 1917, and last year about 5,000,000 acres were cropped, with a yield of 40,000,000 bushels.

Henry Ford has done much to publicize the chances for soy beans in America. He first called wide attention to the fact that soy beans will grow on almost every type of soil and that they are relatively safe from drouth, damp, or chinch bugs. Planting time is in May or June, and the harvest begins toward the end of September. Frost does not injure the beans. Illinois, number one soy bean state last year, produced over half of the nation's crop.

Excellent bread is made from soy bean meal, as well as cheese, soups, butter, salad oil, macaroni and breakfast foods. Over 50,000,000 pounds of soy bean oil went into lard substitutes and vegetable shortenings last year. The oil and the meal are used in the manufacture of glue, paints, combs, candles, radios, buttons, axle grease, explosives, linoleum, oilcloth, ink, billiard balls, rubber substitutes, enamel, glycerine, soap, and plastics in great variety.

The future of the soy bean is great indeed. From a non-entity it has become the fourth largest crop of the American farm. Mr. Ford thinks that eventually a good many automobile parts, including bodies, will be made of products grown on the farm, and that the soy bean will have a leading part in this outcome.

The Autumn Parade

A HARD-HEADED old codger who seldom gets off center said to us yesterday: "Have you been out in the woods this week? For Pete's sake drop everything and see the show before it's all over. I never saw anything like it, and I couldn't get enough of it."

This is the time of the "flaming leaves" in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. The trees have been putting on their annual fall show, and the spectacle is majestic and breath-taking. Miles of woodlands are tinted with the gold of beech and birch, and the scarlet of oak and maple. The contrast leads the pines and spruces to take on an unearthly green. Even the marsh grass around the inland lakes turns to gold, and the deep red cones of the sumac do their bit to make every common roadside a thing of loveliness.

The greatest show on earth, which this truly is, makes its astonishing parade for the home folks, and they are taking more and more interest in it yearly. In all of the vast peninsula which is upper Michigan there may be a few dozen belated tourists who share the pageant with us, and some hundreds of railway train passengers who get a fleeting glimpse of the feast through car windows.

We are sorry for the rest of the world, which gets along somehow without enjoying the gorgeous Upper Peninsula panoramas which every autumn brings us. Many of the home folks have been spending glorious hours and days, roaming awheel and afoot, through scenes which put the fairyland of youth to shame. Their hearts have been uplifted and their memories stored with recollections that only the northern autumn parade can bring.

RA Gets New Funds

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has allocated $33,000,000 for continuance of the field operations of the Resettlement Administration, $20,000,000 of which will be used for the completion of resettlement projects already under way. Included among these projects is the resettlement of a large number of families, whose homes at Ironwood are supposed to be endangered by the sinking of the land due to underground mining operations.

The Resettlement Administration program has been greatly curtailed in recent months. In some areas, the work has been reduced to the mere giving of rehabilitation loans to farm families. Many ambitious resettlement projects have been abandoned. The diversion of RA funds to aid drought-stricken families in the "dust bowl" area was largely responsible for the shrinking of the program.

Many of the RA projects looked excellent in theory, but did not work out so well in practice. Those that have been proven worthwhile by experience are being continued, but for some reason or other nothing much is being said about them at present. Political strategy in view of the fact that the presidential campaign is now on in earnest probably calls for playing down Prof. Tugwell's pet ideas for the time being.

Low Fares Favored

WESTERN railroads have decided to continue in effect next year the low round trip offered this year in view of the large gains in passenger traffic last summer. The railroads reported a 30 per cent gain for the 1936 summer season.

The revival of the railroads has been one of the bright spots of the nation's recovery from the depression. It had been quite generally predicted that the railroads would never get out of the doldrums, but lowering of passenger fares to two cents a mile, speeding up of trains and increasing of the traveler's comforts, along with general improvement in freight service, has enabled the carriers to keep pace with the recovery in other fields.

Railroad recovery has been felt particularly in this region. The carriers are again going into the buying market for steel and timber, products which form the basic industries of the Upper Peninsula.

Spectacular Mayor

ONE of the oddest political careers of the 1930s seems to have been ended—for the time being, at any rate—by the resignation of William N. McNair as mayor of Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh surprised itself, in the first place, by electing McNair at all. He had been a perennial candidate for divers offices, and people had begun to class him as a permanent also-ran. His election to the mayoralty was one of the most sensational features of the great political overturn which followed the depression.

Once in office, the mayor cut a spectacular figure. Whether he was moving his official desk out into the corridor of city hall, getting himself arrested, or begging that his own salary be slashed, he was forever making headlines.

With this genius for publicity, however, he did not seem able to combine an equal genius for good government; now, at last, he resigns to rescue the city from an unendurable financial mixup.

It is a queer, unaccountable political career which he has brought to at least a temporary end.

BRUCKER AND HOOK

(Iron Mountain News)

MR. BRUCKER'S answer to Congressman Hook's charge that he was associated with the Black Legion is to be appropriate suit, to be started in a Gogebic county court this week. He told an Iron Mountain audience that the best way to encourage entry of able and decent men and women into politics is to discourage by summary measures such scoundrelly character assassination as that of which Hook has, he said, sought to make him the victim. There must be agreement with Mr. Brucker, and hope that he will be unremitting in efforts to force the earliest possible hearing of his cause.

In rejoinder, Mr. Hook reiterates his charges and invites Mr. Brucker to dispose of his suit in the short time that intervenes before election. Mr. Hook knows that it is not possible to do this and, furthermore, that it would not have been possible to have brought the suit to an issue if Brucker had moved immediately on his first utterance of the charge. He apparently hopes that Brucker's inability to join the issue before the election will persuade voters that he has no intention to join it, and that his filing of suit is a campaign gesture.

Brucker pointed out, in referring to Hook's charges, that in an American Legion convention held some years ago, when the Ku Klux Klan was still a force to be reckoned with, he was a sponsor of a resolution denouncing the Klan, and all other organizations devoted to the inculcation of class and religious hatreds, and pressed for its adoption, against opposition. This resolution was finally made the official position of the Legion on the Klan. Brucker declared that the only Legion he ever belonged to was the American Legion. He had, he said, addressed the Wolverine Republican club, as he had addressed many other Republican clubs throughout the state. But if there were any Black Legionnaires in the club or in the audience he did not know it.

The matter in debate cannot, as Hook well knows, be put to the test of trial in court until the election is out of the way. Hook gives evidence of a purpose to reiterate his charges. Opinion must, therefore, rest, pending proof, on answer to the question which man is to be believed.

As far as this newspaper is concerned, it believes that Brucker has been made the victim of a grossly unfair attack.

Its view is strengthened by what it knows of Brucker's personal character and ideals—it has by no means thought highly fo all his qualities as a public official—and by its knowledge, gained over the past two years, of Hook's recklessness in utterance and irresponsibility.

Time and again, in congress and out, he has made charges he has been unable to support, and has given evidence that he is not particular as to what he says, if only he can serve the political purpose of the moment.

Its view is further strengthened by the fact that at a meeting in Bates, in Iron county, this week he uttered innuendo against Senator Vandenberg.

There are voters in the district who would believe Hook justified in any slanderous utterance he saw fit to make against any candidate on the opposing ticket.

But there are, we believe, many more voters who will hold, with Brucker, that the way to elevate politics is to assure that men and women can enter it without subjecting themselves to the likelihood of vicious attack by irresponsible fellows.

It is impossible to forecast what vote Mr. Hook will get in the twelfth. For its part, this newspapers believes that he has merited rebuke from decent and right-minded members of all parties, and that should be laid by the heels with decisive emphasis.

Persons usually leave school and strike out for themselves, whereas Pitcher Bob Feller is returning to school.

It doesn't do to say the Townsend Plan is mathematically impossible. That isn't constructive criticism.

Your Nation's Affairs

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Daily Press Washington Correspondent

Washington—When President Roosevelt refers to the election as "in the bag," that's what he believes.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

The president's unquenchable optimism is so pronounced among his characteristics that this self-assurance is hardly to be recommended as a tip to gamblers. It does, however, provide the key to one of the chief phases of New Deal campaign strategy as laid down by F. D. R. himself.

He has insisted that Democrats must not embark on a slambang, bitter, harsh-tongued attack. Some of his advisers have argued heatedly with him about this, stressing the need or their own personal desire to "take the hide off" Governor Landon and other opposition leaders.

But Roosevelt, confident that he can afford to avoid that sort of thing, insists that he is most of all desirous of having as little bad feeling in the country after the election as is possible.

The president—and this goes for many other New Dealers—is said to fear that the nation must sooner or later face the menace of Fascism. The more bitterness and class hatred now stirred up, he is reported to feel, the harder it will be to combat that threat.

Of course if the president gets the jitters before election day—and some of his best friends think he is much too confident—he probably will let the boys take off their wraps. For the present he holds that only the more "glaring" examples of opposition propaganda should be answered.

Among the barb-tongued gentry who have been severely curbed by this policy are Secretary Ickes, Harry Hopkins of WPA, Gen. Hugh Johnson, and Senators Lou Schwellenbach of Washington and Burt Wheeler of Montana.

"AMERICAN WAY" IS OLD CRY

Political researchers have found that the expression "the American way," which is being plugged heavily in this campaign, was first used by Henry Clay when he ran unsuccessfully as the Whig candidate against James K. Polk in 1844.

GERALD K. TO TELL "ALL"

Your correspondent gets inside tips even from the camp—or perhaps one should say the tent—of the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, who is campaigning ostensibly for Lemke, but primarily for the future power and glory of the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith.

Gerald's pals whisper that he is going to "tell all" at a mass meeting at the Hippodrome in New York the night of Oct. 20. They say that he has the late Huey Long's secret files and that he will drag therefrom some hot dope concerning Jim Farley, the "real story" of Jimmy Roosevelt's insurance business operations, and other "revelations" of sensational nature.

There's no doubt that the Rev. Mr. Smith will try very hard. But if he produces any new facts which cause more than a tiny ripple in the campaign, he will be surpassing all his previous efforts, which invariably have been on the wild side.

Unless your correspondent has been sadly misled, the secret files of the late Huey—the sensational nature of which probably was overrated—passed into the hands of his secretary, Earl Christenberry, and thence into the possession of Mrs. Long.

GUESSING ON CABINET BERTH

Nobody knows yet who will be the next secretary of war, although many are guessing. Three possibilities are General Johnson, Gov. Paul McNutt of Indiana, and Acting Secretary Harry Woodring of Kansas. But it is easy to cite reasons why none of them will get the job. (If Landon is elected, of course, the post will go to a Republican.)

Gov. Jim Curley of Massachusetts, Democratic candidate for senator, was in Washington a while ago promoting Gov. Louis Brann of Maine—a defeated senatorial candidate—for the berth. But one of his representatives later telephoned Woodring, who was then at the American Legion convention in Cleveland, and said that if Woodring would persuade Mayor Bob Greenwood of Fitchburg to withdraw his independent candidacy for senator, Curley would support Woodring for the permanent, full secretaryship. Woodring denies there was any deal, but Greenwood has withdrawn.

General Johnson is believed to desire the job, but most administrationists consider him too erratic and undependable in his public statements, although admitting he has helped effectively in the campaign.

Governor McNutt could use the secretaryship to keep himself in the public eye pending 1940, but organized labor opposes him and—although one report says Farley has promised him the post—he is not popular in Washington.

LOLA MONTEZ, the gay dancing lady who swept across Europe and America in the 19th century like a tropic typhoon doing the dance of the seven veils, gets her innings in "Queen of Hearts," by Isaac Goldberg (John Day: $2.50).

Catton

Lola wasn't much of a dancer, it seems, but she had a way with her and she cashed in on it, in gold and in headlines.

The illegitimate offspring of a fantastic romance between a gallant young Irishman in the Queen's service and a 13-year-old Spanish girl, Lola spent six of her first 10 years at a government post in India, returning thence to England to be educated.

At 18 she eloped with Lieut. Thomas James to escape marriage to a titled old curmudgeon from India, Sir Abraham Lumley, a 60-year-old supreme court judge.

Then her mad career began. Within a few years she was separated from her young husband and making her first appearance as a dancer. For seven years she danced her way across Europe, from city to city and from court to court, loving lightly as she went.

Then, at 30, she suddenly became one of the chief political powers of the continent, as mistress and confidante of the aged King Ludwig I of Bavaria.

Until the citizens rose and threw her out, she lived and ruled like a queen. After that she lived in and on the past, touring Europe, Australia, and America; and cashing in, via the stage, on her Bavarian adventure. She died in America and is buried in Brooklyn.

Mr. Goldberg writes with knowledge, sympathy, and wit. His biography of the vivid Montez is facile, historically accurate, and vastly readable.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch

(Copyright 1936, By Douglas Malloch)

FALLEN

One night a tree fell. Half the town
Was telling how the tree came down,
And where they were, and what they saw,
Some with excitement, some with awe.
Some said a beech, some said a birch,
"It might have hit the Baptist church,"
And there were many more who knew
Someday that's what that tree would do.

One night a boy fell. Tired of school,
He learned his habits playing pool,
Picked up the words his father used,
And took the drink he first refused.
And, since he heard his elders say
A man's a fool to work that way,
He sought, instead of bench or soil,
Some way of living without toil.

One night a boy fell. "Had to hang,
Although he had just joined the gang."
"I knew his people long ago."
"His father, he was kind of slow."
"His mother went to church with me,
But not for years." One night a tree
Fell in the street, and fell a son;
And more will fall, if nothing's done.

NEW YORK—For ways that are strange in getting their work done, the writing Johnnies are peculiar.

Maxwell Anderson, for example, using a pen, writes his potent dramas in a ledger. Page after page is filled with his femininely fine hand . . . and he rarely, if ever, revises . . . each sentence of his rhythmic prose forming in his head before he sets it down. . . and all within the well-ordered outline he has conceived.

Walter Pitkin assembles his books in a card file and the gathering may take from one month to 10 years . . . When he is ready, he writes the book in from two to four weeks. When he wrote "New Careers For Youth," he asked the publishers for the deadline date . . . discovered it was eight weeks away . . . and went off for a four-week holiday cruise. The publishers became frantic as announcement date drew near . . . but three weeks after he started writing, Pitkin had the galley proofs back in his study . . . and he had written so much that two books instead of one were made of the manuscript. Pitkin, by the way, has a phobia against dictation . . . will not even dictate his correspondence . . . says he can only "think through my finger-tips."

FRANCIS HACKETT, Irish by birth and residence, but American through long experience in Chicago and New York, takes years to write a book. He spent five years and all of his savings writing "Henry VIII" . . . and is so conscientious in his reporting that he has been known to travel from London to Paris to Spain to verify a fact which occupied only a sentence in that fine opus.

Thomas Wolfe is another ledger-writer, and there is no accounting left of the number of grocery store ledgers he filled in writing "Of Time And The River." In one room of Wolfe's Brooklyn apartment was a box so vast, he could have stretched his huge frame in it without cramping . . . but he didn't . . . he threw his manuscripts there. Even after publication of his first three tomes, the box was still well stocked . . . and when he went off to Europe his greatest problem was what to do with the gigantic store-house of future best-sellers.

Walter Millis, who penned that "Road To War," invariably complains that he is only half through when the publishers call for the manuscript. . . Grand Duchess Marie, who probably is one of the finest writers royalty has produced, insists that as a writer she is a dud . . . Olin Downes, the music critic, is a word-coiner and will spend hours seeking new words to express just what he wants to say . . . News Behind The News

BY PAUL MALLON

Washington, Oct. 12.—Russia's "ultimatum" accusing Italy and Germany of violating the "gentlemen's" neutrality "agreement" would have caused instant mobilization of all Europe a few years ago. Now all it caused was a new "agreement" among the "gentlemen" not to recognize the "issue."

Mallon

No one was rude enough to point it out, but, for one thing, Russia's accusing finger needed a manicure. More than an official suspicion exists here that she has been contributing two of the greatest munitions of war, food and funds, to the Spanish government. Likewise, non-combatants have testified that 17 French officers were directing the defense of Irun. A few of their bodies were found upon the field latter. As Russia is an "ally" of France, she neglected to mention these things, but confined her accusations to Fascist governments, which have been contributing planes and supplies to the Spanish rebels.

Thus, it is no international secret that all the parties to the neutrality agreement, except England, possess slightly soiled paws in this situation. Consequently, there will be no showdown.

The lesson which the affair has given to high officialdom here is that neutrality is impossible in the existing condition of honor among nations. "Ultimatums", "gentlemen" and "agreements" are words which have lost some of their meaning.

—CONSOLIDATION—

The Soviet move was, of course, recognized as another maneuver in the international alignment of Communism versus Fascism. But only the best informed here detected the same motive behind the simultaneous seizure of dictatorial power by Chancellor Schuschnigg in Austria.

The bloodless revolution there was too subtle and sudden to justify final conclusions immediately. However, it was seen here as a consolidation of the Fascist position, undertaken probably by agreement of Mussolini and Hitler to end bickering. All of which is more bad news for Russia.

—WORDS—

No text of the "gentlemen" neutrality "agreement" has been published. Apparently it included only an unworded pledge among the neutrals not to help either side in Spain with arms, munitions or funds. Even if there had been a text, participating governments could easily have winked at contributions by private citizens, and perhaps even secretly contributed to such moves without much danger of getting caught.

It is extremely difficult to formulate a wholly effective neutrality policy in words, as congress has discovered.

The New Deal foreign policy makers intend to worry along with texts along the line of their loosely worded and well intentioned neutrality law, but only in this hemisphere. The coming Pan-American conference will probably adopt these broadened pledges. Guiding diplomats say no effort will be made to get Europe to subscribe, because they have no hope that their efforts would lead to anything except complications.

The truth is they are skeptical of the ultimate effectiveness of all neutrality moves suggested so far, including their own.

—RELIEF ADVERTISING—

One of those periodic upheavals within WPA was effected quietly a few days back. It occurred in the advertising division. Twenty-seven men were let out at once in the publicity, radio promotion and movie offices. No interruption in WPA advertising activities was involved.

Off the government printing office presses came a circular on expansive paper advertising the new picture book of WPA. It was entitled "Work Pays America." Ink sketches showed square-shouldered WPA-ers in upright positions, operating picks, wheel barrows and shovels. Inside were photographs of a nurse giving a child a spoonful of something out of a large bottle, an interior view of a sewer from east to west and a picture resume of the 90,000 jobs on which 2,500,000 workers were said to be employed.

This publicity promotion will be continued by the new WPA advertiser. He just kicked out the 27 old occupants of the division because he did not know them, and brought in his own friends.

—NOTES—

Retired security administrator Winant received three times as much congratulatory mail upon his resignation as upon his acceptance of the office.

Colonel Lindbergh was privately urged by a certain congressional group to return from England and give two weeks over to the political campaign here. He took the invitation under advisement, which means: "No."

Victims of senate investigations are getting wise. The firm destroyed them after receiving them back from the Nye committee.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS NEETZEL

Selective Logging Plan Explained by U. S. Forester

Results of experiments with selective logging methods at the Dukes Forest Experiment Station were described by J. R. Neetzel, director of the station, in a talk before the Kiwanis club at the Sherman hotel yesterday noon.

The Upper Peninsula Experimental Forest is located about 21 miles southeast of the city of Marquette. A section of land was donated to the government by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company in 1926.

According to Mr. Neetzel, the station is trying to develop better methods of handling forest lands and forest crops in the northern hardwood region. Results of trial cuttings have shown that selective logging is practical, he said.

Trends observed during the past 10 years since the station was established indicate that hardwoods, particularly maple and birch, develop best in dense stands of all age classes, while pines grow best in dense even age stands.

Selective logging promises permanency to the forest products industries, said Mr. Neetzel, who also ventured an estimate that if sustained yield lumbering had been practiced in the past, the timber within a 30-mile radius from Escanaba would have been able to supply the needs of lumber, paper, chemical, veneer and woodenware mills permanently.

Selective logging also reduces fire hazards, the speaker said. He stated that the Patten Lumber company of Amasa had found that the fire hazard was little cause for worry during the past summer. The Patten company also has found this type of logging profitable. No tree planting is necessary when a timber tract is logged selectively, since hardwoods, in particular, reproduce rapidly. The speaker pointed out that replanting is made necessary when fire follows destructive lumbering operations.

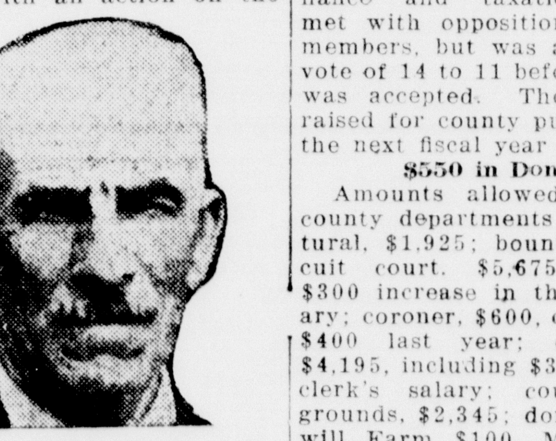
Wishes He Had Known of KruGon Many Years Before

FIRST MEDICINE HE HAS EVER TAKEN TO GIVE HIM SATISFACTORY RESULTS; RHEUMATIC PAINS DRIVEN FROM HIS BODY, KIDNEYS REGULATED, FEELS FINE NOW

KruGon is remarkable in the manner in which it removes poisonous impurities from the system in a way that is positive, yet harmless, with an action on the intestinal tract declared to be entirely different from all other medicines.



MR. JAMES KING

All over Escanaba and vicinity this new KruGon is giving complete relief in so many old and agonizing cases of rheumatism, neuritis, stomach, liver, kidney, bowel and blood troubles that it is truly astonishing.

For example, read what Mr. James King, Wells, Michigan, (just north of here) well known local gentleman, said recently in lauding the action of this valuable new remedy to the KruGon Man at the West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington Street, Escanaba:

"KruGon has given me the best health I have had in the past twenty years," said Mr. James King. "I had been in a miserable condition, the pains in my arms and legs were unbearable at times until I could hardly stand it. They would often cripple me they were so severe. My kidneys became disordered too, back ached continually until it was with difficulty that I did my work. I did not feel like myself at all, was tired and worn-out, lacked the strength and energy to get about as I should, could not sleep well and felt as if my entire system was gradually wearing-out. But that was before I knew of KruGon and its remarkable action."

"In spite of all the failures of other medicines KruGon wasted no time in going to the very source of my health troubles," continued Mr. King, "I have just finished my first box of this new laxative-tonic and it has been wonderful for me. Those dreadful rheumatic pains have been relieved, kidneys are regulated, bowels function properly and I feel fine. I now eat and sleep good, enjoy new pep and energy and life really holds so much more for me feeling the way I do today. KruGon has accomplished for me what all else failed to do."

The KruGon Man is daily meetings crowds of local people at the West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city, where he is introducing and explaining the action of this valuable new remedy.

Officers of Franklin Republic

All County Officers Get Raise In Salary

Salaries of all Delta county elective officers were increased, effective January 1, 1937, in the annual budget adopted by the Delta county board of supervisors Monday afternoon. The pay raises range from $50 to $300, and will add a total of over $3,000 to the county payroll next year, without increasing the total county budget, which will be about $400 lower than last year. The increases in salaries were made possible by savings affected in the various county departments.

Adoption of the new salary schedule, as presented by the finance and taxation committee, met with opposition from board members, but was approved by a vote of 14 to 11 before the budget was accepted. The total to be raised for county purposes during the next fiscal year is $98,281.02.

$550 in Donations

Amounts allowed the various county departments are: Agricultural, $1,925; bounties, $10; circuit court, $5,675, including a $300 increase in the judge's salary; coroner, $600, compared with $400 last year; county clerk, $4,195, including $300 increase in clerk's salary; courthouse and grounds, $2,345; donations, Goodwill Farm $100, Michigan Children's Aid Society $100, Starr Commonwealth $100, U. P. Development Bureau $250.

Justices, $4,100; juvenile, $3,000; elections $500; miscellaneous, $3,830; parks and airports, $1,000; poor, $11,800, including $300 increase in the salary of the superintendent secretary; probate, $5,085, with a $100 increase for the judge and $60 increase for the register; prosecuting attorney, $5,880, including $300 increase for the prosecutor and $180 increase for his assistant; register of deeds, $3,960, with $200 increase for the register of deeds and $60 increase for the deputy; schools, $3,845; sheriff, $14,630, with $300 salary increase for the sheriff and $100 raise for undersheriff, turnkey and night officer; state institutions, $6,425; supervisors, $2,900; treasures, $5,485, with $300 salary increase for the treasurer and $120 increase for the deputy.

Health Unit Added

No change was made in the amount alloted for tubercular cattle testing and county veterinarian which stands at $2,100. The Pinecrest sanatorium budget will also remain at $4,500, with bond interest fund added to make it over $6,000. A new department, the county health unit, will mean $2,610 added to the budget, this being the county's share of the $12,610 necessary for the maintenance of this unit during the year. The contingent fund was reduced by the finance committee, and stands at $1,331.02 for the next fiscal year.

Resolutions were adopted commending Murray D. VanWagoner, state highway commissioner, for his leadership in concrete highway construction, and providing that members of the county board participate in US-2-41 dedication ceremonies today and tomorrow.

A resolution urging defeat of amendment No. 4, to be voted on November 3, was adopted. This amendment provides for the abolition of the property tax.

U. P. PENSION STAFF TO MEET

Investigators to Confer In Escanaba On October 17

A conference of all Old Age Assistance Bureau investigators in the Upper Peninsula will be held here Saturday, October 17, John R. McDonald, district supervisor, announced. Representatives from each of the 15 counties in the U. P. will attend.

The purpose of the meeting is to instruct these field workers regarding a re-check of all old age assistance recipients residing in the Upper Peninsula in accordance with instructions received from Dr. Philip A. Callahan, chief, old age assistance bureau, Lansing, and the Federal Social Security Board. A call back will be made on each case every four months thereafter.

The reason for these periodic checks, stated Mr. McDonlad, is so the bureau may have closer contact with each grantee with a view to adjusting the grant as the individual need from time to time may require. Old age assistance is not an old age pension as many people think and differs in this respect in that all grants are based entirely upon need rather than age. It is a dignified form of relief for the needy aged of Michigan who are eligible under the state and federal law.

District Governor Guest Of Escanaba Lions Last Night

"Live clubs like yours need no pep talk from the district governor," Joseph A. Bottkol, of Menominee, district governor of the Lions, told members of the Escanaba club at a dinner meeting in the Delta hotel last night.

Governor Bottkol, who was a guest at the local district governor's night program, said that Lions clubs of the peninsula were showing a pleasing growth, and that there were now 14 clubs in the district, with a membership of 425. He announced that the district convention for 1937 would be held July 3, 4 and 5 at the Soo.

Entertainment at the meeting was furnished by Miss Perry Donahue, who gave two selections on the marimbaphone, with Miss Jeanette Moreau as accompanist.

Coming programs announced by President Gus Asp include a Girl Scout-Campfire Girl program next Monday and a father and son banquet October 26.

Engineer Sums Up Big County Road Program

Summarizing the Delta county highway program for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, County Highway Engineer J. T. Sharpensteen submitted the annual report of the county road commission to the board of supervisors Monday. The report lists in detail the 171-mile WPA construction program which started last November, and which will cost about $700,000.

The road commission's report says:

During the past year the final increment of McNitt road mileage, amounting to 170.26 miles, was adopted as a part of the county road system, which makes a total of 597.1 miles of township roads that have been taken over during the past five years. The township mileage plus the mileage that had been adopted before the passage of the McNitt law makes a total of 730.1 miles under the jurisdiction of this Commission. In addition approximately 130 miles of State Trunkline roads have been maintained under a contract with the Michigan State Highway Department.

In cooperation with the Works Progress Administration, construction has proceeded steadily since last November on a 171-mile project estimated to cost $700,869.90. Your attention is called to a more detailed report of WPA activity found elsewhere in this report.

A large number of applications for the construction of new roads for the benefit of new settlers have been received during the past year. We are attempting to give service on all roads that were reported by the town boards for certification as McNitt roads by the State Highway Commissioner.

The income for McNitt roads is slightly more than $64 per mile per year. Last winter slightly more than one-half the total mileage of McNitt roads were snow plowed at a cost of $56.06 per mile. Had all of the so-called McNitt roads been snow plowed only $8 per mile would have been left for construction and maintenance during the balance of the year.

If the Board of Supervisors feel that these new roads should be constructed and inasmuch as the County Road Commission has no funds available for the purpose, it is suggested that the county board raise a mill tax for this purpose.

WPA Construction

On July 26, 1936 application was submitted to the Works Progress Administration to improve 171 miles of road located in all of the fourteen townships at an estimated cost of $700,869.90, of which amount $67,811.50 is set up as the sponsor's share. This application was approved and work was started on November 11.

The improvement consists mainly of grading, gravel surfacing, and drainage structures. To date 43.0 miles of grading and 117.5 miles gravel surface have been completed. Of the gravel mileage 41.75 miles in new gravel surface and 75.75 miles gravel resurfacing. Six carloads of corrugated metal pipe culverts purchased by WPA at an approximate cost of $15,000.00 have been placed.

Due to the State Highway contracts on U. S. 2 in the eastern part of the county all available labor has been used by the contractors in that section, and work on the county project has been confined, until recently to that part of the county lying west of a north and south line through Rapid River. The following table shows the mileage of grading and gravel surfacing completed in each township.

Township	Grading Miles	New Gravel Surfacing Miles	Gravel Resurfacing Miles
Bark River	7.25	0.5	11.25
Bay de Noc	0.0	0.0	3.00
Baldwin	4.0	11.25	2.50
Brampton	4.5	0.0	0.0
Cornell	6.5	10.50	14.25
Ensign	0.0	6.25	8.00
Escanaba	2.0	2.0	13.0
Ford River	4.75	0.0	2.25
Fairbanks	0.0	0.0	0.0
Garden	1.25	1.25	2.0
Maple Ridge	7.75	5.0	8.0
Masonville	0.0	0.75	0.0
Nahma	0.0	2.00	2.25
Wells	5.0	2.25	9.25
Total	42.0	41.75	75.75

Hand labor methods of doing work have been replaced as far as possible by machinery. Five shovels have been operating for some time. Three gravel plants with a combined capacity of 1000 1500 cubic yards per day, depending on the character of the pits, are operated six days a week. A heavy tractor and grader have been used for some time in turnpiking McNitt roads The use of tractor equipment provides a rapid and satisfactory method of grading secondary roads. Approximately 70 dump trucks, furnished by the WPA are kept busy hauling dirt and gravel.

While it is not known exactly what part of the Federal funds approved for this project have been expended, it is believed slightly more than 50 per cent of the total has been spent. Of the sponsor's share about 85 per cent has already been expended which means that the county's share when the project is completed will amount to considerably more than the original estimate.

A more accurate idea of what has been accomplished so far can be secured by perusing the following statement of units of work completed October 4.

49.66 Acres Clearing
5854.0 Sq. Rds. Grubbing
1.6 Miles Roadside Cleanup

In addition to the road project referred to above WPA has approved an application for a maintainance garage at Rapid River. This building, on which work will be started soon, will be of cinder block construction and will be 50 feet wide and 100 feet long.

There has been a pressing need for some time for a garage at Rapid River to house maintenance equipment located at that point. Barring unforeseen delays this building will be complete and ready for use this winter.

Dr. and Mrs. Whiteshield, Well Known in Peninsula, Celebrate Golden Wedding

An occasion of general interest in Escanaba as well as throughout the peninsula in which they are prominently known, was Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Whiteshield's celebration on Sunday, October 11, of their golden wedding anniversary.

The observance opened with an impressive religious service at high noon at their home in Trout Creek, at which they repeated, in the presence of Rev. Thomas J. Anderson, the wedding vows taken fifty years ago. A family dinner and social diversions occupied the remainder of the day.

Mrs. Whiteshield, who was born March 9, 1866, in Fort Wayne, Ind., and Dr. Whiteshield, who was born September 19, 1863, near Sioux Falls, S. D., were married in Fort Wayne, October 11, 1886. They remained in Fort Wayne for five years and then moved to Detroit where Dr. Whiteshield studied medcine and dentistry at the Michigan College of Medicine and Surgery. Following graduation, Dr. Whiteshield practiced in various cities, and thirty-five years ago, attracted by the beauty of the upper peninsula, they moved to northern Michigan, resided for many years at Powers, and more recently in Trout Creek.

Dr. Whiteshield's hobbies are writing poetry and the enjoyment of fishing and hunting and he is often called the poet laureate of the upper peninsula. Among his works are several books of poetry dealing with the old Indian legends of the peninsula, and many other verses dealing with wild life of the peninsula. He is a member of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, president of the Trout Creek Chamber of Commerce and also president of the Ontonagon County Medical association.

Dr. and Mrs. Whiteshield have two children living, Charles, of Miami, Fla., and Mrs. Mabel Williams of Chicago, who was with her parents on the occasion of the anniversary. A son, James, died overseas during the World war.

Theatres

AT THE DELFT

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, whose filmusicals have catapulted them to the top of screendom's fame, definitely score new triumph in "Swing Time," their latest vehicle which opened at the Delft theatre Sunday.

Their dancing in this gayly medodic comedy offering is at their best to the exciting rhythm of Jerome Kern music and the lyrics by Dorothy Fields. The supporting cast and direction are brilliant.

The plot of "Swing Time' concerns itself with the interweaving relationships between Astaire as a happy-go-lucky, sporting song-and-dance man, Betty Furness as his small-town fiancee, Miss Rogers as an instructress in Eric Blore's dancing academy and George Metaxa as a haughty band leader, with Victor Moore and Helen Broderick doing their amusing and misguided best to straighten out matters.

AT THE MICHIGAN

Filmed in the colorful farm country of Santa Cruz, "Old Hutch," which opened at the Michigan theatre Sunday, deals with a man who hasn't worked for twenty years because of "back trouble." While fishing one day he accidentally stumbles upon a box of hidden loot, $100,000 in all.

"Old Hutch" is portrayed by the inimitable Wallace Berry and his performance delighted a capacity audience.

Because he hasn't worked in years and is known to be without a cent, he realizes that it would be impossible for him to cash any of the $1,000 bills. Hutch gets a job running a farm in order to save enough money to start using the stolen bills without arousing suspicion.

US-2 & US-41 Highway Celebration Begins at Menominee Tonight

OUTDOOR MEET PLANNED HERE

Van Wagoner Will Speak Following Luncheon Wednesday Noon

Communities in three of Michigan's Upper Peninsula counties, Menominee, Delta and Schoolcraft, will join today and tomorrow in a celebration marking the completion of a new concrete highway from Menominee to Manistique, a total distance of 123 miles.

More than 5,000 persons are expected to attend a preliminary ceremony at Crystal Falls this afternoon for the dedication of 2.8 miles of new 20 and 30-foot concrete pavement on US-2 and 141 in the city of Crystal Falls and south. A barbecue will be held in connection with the event and three bands will furnish music.

Banquet This Evening

This evening a public banquet will be held in Menominee.

A "motorcade" of 50 cars headed by State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner will leave Menominee Wednesday morning, October 14, to travel the entire length of the new highway to Manistique.

Ceremonies are scheduled for the start of the trip and at larger communities along the route. A luncheon and outdoor meeting will be held Wednesday noon in Escanaba, followed by an evening banquet at Manistique.

The celebration will mark the completion of a thee-year program of improvement on US-41 and US-2 through Michigan's Upper Peninsula, a part of the 'around the lake tour." The Michigan section of the "tour" begins at the interstate bridge in Menominee on US-41 and joins US-2 at Powers. The "tour" continues over US-2 joining with US-31 at the Straits of Mackinac. This road follows the Lake Michigan shore to Benton Harbor, Michigan, where it hooks up with US-12. This route constitutes the "round the lake tour" to its junction with US-41 in Chicago.

"US-2 and US-41 are the two principal routes through Michigan's Upper Peninsula," said Commissioner Van Wagoner. "By mutual agreement with citizens of that area we have concentrated our construction programs on those two highways. We have achieved our first major objective with the opening of the new road from Menominee to Manistique."

Started In 1933

First projects in the program got under way in the latter part of 1933. Every new program since then has contained several projects to continue the development. Total cost of the improvement is estimated at $3,202,977. Some 38 projects were required for construction of the 76.7 miles of grading and drainage and new concrete, 6 bridges, and one grade separation included in the new road.

Commissioner Van Wagoner pointed to the new road as an example of his policy of relocating highways to bring them closer to the shores of Michigan's Great Lakes. At several points the road has been relocated so that tourists might see the blue waters of Lake Michigan. At the same time, dangerous curves and turns have been eliminated and traveling distance shortened. On the section of the new highway from Stephenson to Daggett, two dangerous railroad crossings have been eliminated.

Travel Time Reduced

The new location east of Rapid River reduces travel distance and provides two new scenic views of Little and Big Bay de Noc. On the section of the new road southwest of Manistique travel distance has been reduced by 3.5 miles and motorists now have frequent views of the Lake Michigan shore.

Another major section of US-2 is now in the final stages of completion. US-2 west of St. Ignace has been relocated to provide almost a continuous view of Lake Michigan. Only a small connecting link in the vicinity of St. Ignace remains to be completed.

The new road stretches for 23 miles and is paved with 20-foot concrete. For part of the distance it is built adjacent to the shore while at other points it rises to the bluffs where motorists have broad, panoramic views of coast line in either direction. This section has been completed at a cost of more than $1,000,000.

Tourist Lodge Planned

Further improvements on US-41 include the construction of a tourist lodge near the interstate bridge in Menominee. The building is now under construction and will be ready for service next year. Van Wagoner explained that the lodge would serve as a clearing house for road and vacation information for tourists. A department employe will be stationed at the lodge to extend greetings and to give unbiased and authentic information to travelers entering the state.

The first lodge of this kind was opened by the Michigan highway department on US-12 near New Buffalo at the Indiana border in 1935. More than 150,000 tourists have registered there this summer. Two other lodges are now planned for Monroe and Sault Ste. Marie. Sites are selected on main entrance routes to the state. The Michigan highway planning survey reports that the average daily traffic load on US-41 near Menominee was 2,160 vehicles during July and August. Of this number 710 had other than Michigan license plates. With the opening of the new road Commissioner Van Wagoner expects an increase in this traffic.

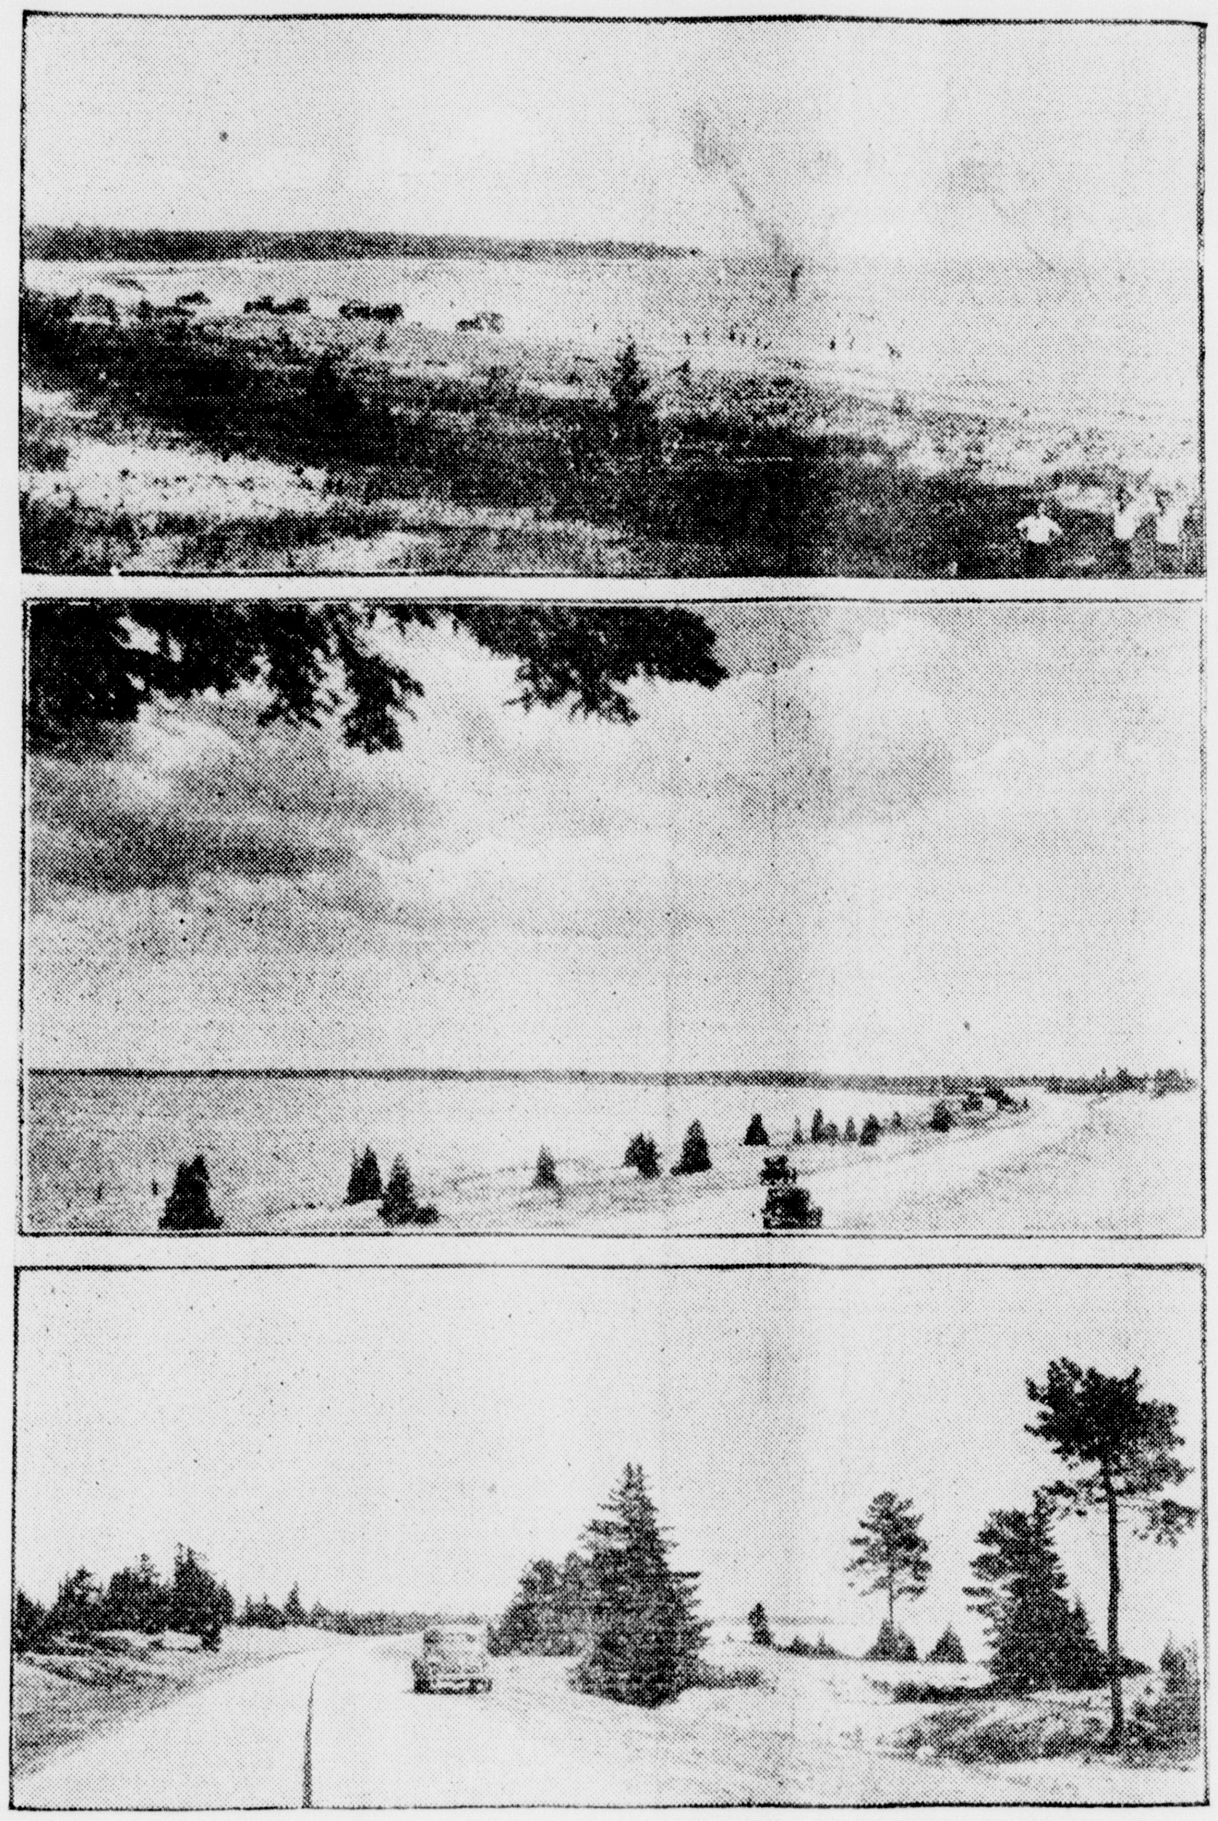
"The 'round the lake tour' is becoming increasingly popular," Van Wagoner said. "Improvements in Michigan on highways US-41, US-2, US-31, and US-12 should serve to increase this popularity."

New Ferry Boat

A new and larger state ferry boat to be added to the state-owned fleet at the Straits of Mackinac will be built this winter. The new vessel will be streamlined and twice as large as the present boats. It will be ready for service by June 1 next year.

"Michigan is just completing the largest construction program in her history. In view of the importance of the tourist industry in northern Michigan most of the improvements in that section have been on shore line and inland scenic routes," Van Wagoner said. "Roadside parks and landscaping have also been prominent in our construction programs.'

Scenic Shoreline Highway in U. P.



The scenic shoreline pavement on US-2 in thevicinity of Thompson and Manistique is a part of the 125-mile stretch being dedicated with appropriate ceremonies tomorrow. Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, will be the principal speaker at a banquet to be held at the Legion Cottage in Manistique Wednesday evening. This will be the final event on the two-day celebration program.

Money Alloted For Extra Help At Post Office

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C.—The Escanaba postmaster has been allotted $577.06 to hire extra help to assist in handling the Christmas rush this year, it was learned at the postoffice department today.

This sum provide approximately 900 man-hours of extra work at the Escanaba postoffice during the ten-day Christmas rush period, postal officials figure. The allotment is based on the Escanaba postmaster's own estimate of the mount of additional help he will need this year was said.

The money will be used mainly to hire clerks and carriers, but additional laborers, if necessary above the regular quarterly allotment, will also be paid from this fund.

Substitutes now listed at the Escanaba postoffice are expected to be given preference, but the question is entirely up to the postmaster, officials said. By a rule of long standing, no one above 45 yers of age is to be employed for the Christmas work, however.

Christmas allotments to postoffices this year are in most cases considerably larger than similar allotments made last year, indicating that increased business is expected this Christmas, it was said at the post office department. Last year the Escanaba postoffice got $374.46 for extra Christmas help.

SPEAKER URGES UNITED FRONT

Communist Sees Fascism Coming in This Country

"The Communists are not the advocates of violence in this country; they are the victims of it," Norman Tallentire, Communist speaker declared in an address at a party rally held last night at the city hall. Tallentire is touring this section of the country in the interests of the candidacy of Earl Browder, Communist party candidate for the presidency.

Tallentire urged the joining of all the liberal and progressive forces in this country in an united front against reaction. He also announced that immediately after the election the Communist party would give its active support to any movement for the formation of a Farmer-Labor party to enter the national elections in 1940.

The speaker criticized William Randolph Hearst, Father Coughlin and William Lemke as the leaders of an American Fascist movement. He charged Hearst was responsible for the nomination of Landon and Knox, and also denied that the Communists are supporting the Democratic party's presidential candidate.

"Roosevelt has repudiated us, and we don't trust him", Tallentire declared. "He is retreating before reaction."

Tallentire asserted that there is no solution for the unemployment problem under the capitalistic system, and predicted that the ruling classes will finally resort to some type of Fascism, probably under a different name, in order that they might continue to receive their profits as long as possible. When Fascism comes, the workers' unions, fraternal organizations and every other means of democratic expression will be destroyed in the same manner as was done by Hitler in Germany and Mussolini in Italy, he predicted. The workers will be the main sufferers under a Fascism regime, he added.

After giving his address, Tallentire answered questions put to him by his audience. Raymond Anderson presided as chairman of the meeting. About twenty-five persons attended the rally.

Milton Smith, 40, G. Bay Yachtsman, Reported Drowned

Green Bay, Wis. (AP)—Coast guardsmen continued their search for Milton Smith, 40-year-old security dealer missing since a duck hunting accident Saturday in Green Bay, after high winds and rough water forced a halt to the hunt Sunday.

Aided by sportsmen, yacht club members and a fleet of power boats, yachts and fishing craft, the coast guardsmen looked along the Green Bay shore without success.

Smith and three companions left the Yacht club early Saturday in a power boat and moored near Frying Pan island about two miles out in the bay off the mouth of the Fox river. Then they put out hunting skiffs.

The skiffs occupied by Smith and Albert Peterson overturned in the rough waters. Peterson reached shore safely but Smith did not.

KATE and CAROLINE MEED live on a run-down Blue Grass farm with their lovable, indolent grandfather, MAJOR SAM MEED, and two old Negro servants, ALTHY and ZEKE.

Kate is engaged to MORGAN PRENTISS, but is neglected by him for EVE ELWELL, just home from college.

Major Meed goes on a spree and is cared for by the girls and Althy and Zeke. Kate and Caroline start to Louisville with Zeke to deliver four baked ham ordered by a club. Their sedan is struck by a car with an eastern license. The driver, a stranger, gives them $50 for repairs and consents to take the two girls and the hams to the city. En route he asks to buy the formula for curing and cooking the ham. Kate writes out the formula and asks $500 for it. He hastily pays the sum when Kate informs him that she has seen him steal the license plates from their damaged car. The girls bank the money and buy a new dress for Kate to wear to a dance.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

Down at State University a young man of 24 had just received his diploma.

Thomas Jefferson Howard was his name.

There had been no one there to see him graduate—no one who belonged to him, that is. He was the last of his clan in that rough mountain county that fringed the lowlands and yet a part of the hills.

He had come down at 21 — three years ago — "to finish his learnin' " at the university of his native state. During those three years he had accomplished a four-year course, studying even during the summer weeks to win his credits. Through it all, he had been shy and proud and sullen, knowing himself to be "different" and resenting it. It was not merely that he was older than the youths around him. He was unmistakably "mountain" in speech and gesture and appearance. Mountain, too, in his silences and his suspicious reserve.

Going to his boarding house, he went into his room and slammed the door behind him. He still wore his cap and gown, and as he looked at himself in the mirror he laughed harshly.

"Thought it 'ud make a difference in your looks, havin' a diploma, didn't you, Jeff? Well, it didn't. Exceptin' to make you look sillier, walkin' around in this tool get-up."

A girl had laughed at him as he had crossed the campus, half an hour ago. A very pretty girl. She had been strolling between two dapper lower classmen in white flannels, and as Jeff Howard passed the trio they had looked at him without troubling to veil the amusement in their eyes.

The girl's laughing voice had floated back to him, "Who's the big scarecrow?"

"Thomas Jefferson Howard," he heard one of the boys say, accenting the high-sounding name with a diabolical drawl.

He could imagine the rest. They'd told the girl about his nicknames, of course. "Old Constitution" and "Old Democracy." About his futile attempts at dancing. His eternal selection of the wrong clothes. His tucking his napkin under his chin that time at the freshman banquet. Yes, they could have kept that pretty girl in stitches for an hour, if they'd wanted to, just telling her the things Jeff Howard used to do when he was trying to be "one of the boys." . . . After that first year he'd quit trying. He'd become a sullen recluse, studying hard, minding his own business, and thanking everybody else to mind theirs.

He repeated his own name with alaugh, "Thomas Jefferson Howard"! No wonder there'd been a titter when that name was called in the graduate list and he had responded. What had his parents meant, tying a name like Thomas Jefferson to a child in a cabin in a clearing?

He put his head between his hands and cursed in bitterness and defeat. He'd gotten his "learnin'." He'd gotten his sheepskin. But there was no magic in them to transform him into the being he longed to be. He was still just a hill man, out of place and out of step.

Presently he discarded the cap and gown, picked up his hat and went purposefully from the room and the house. Gaining the street, he went striding toward a town-bound street car and swung aboard it.

Actually, Jeff Howard was not homely. He was six feet three in height and large of bone. His head was superbly moulded his features strong and good. But, like many mountain people, he was thin and awkward and slightly stooped. His brown hair stood up crazily. His sharp blue eyes wore a narrowed expression, as if looking intently down the barrel of a shotgun. In his present state he was indeed an ungainly figure. Yet a shrewd movie producer might have seen in him a potential hero of western dramas.

When he had reached the business section of the town, Jeff Howard went into an office building and took an elevator to the office of his lawyer.

Mr. McBain will see you, M. Howard," a secretary told him immediately. She was deferential, but he did not notice it.

Here, indeed, was the irony of the thing—this awkward mountaineer was wealthy. During the last year of his parents' lives, an especially fine vein of coal had been found on their land. Jeff, at 20, had inherited it. For a year thereafter he had studied with a tutor in one of the semi-mountain towns, laboriously filling in the gaps of his patchy elementary education and preparing himself for college. He had believed that a college degree would make him like the people of the cities and the lowlands.

Jeff Howard sat across the desk from his lawyer and wasted no words. "I've graduated," he said. "I'm ready to get out of this town." Waving aside Mr. McBain's congratulations, he went on curtly: "I want to talk to you about the mortgages I hold. You told me most of 'em are in Blue Grass property, didn't you?

"Well," he continued at a nod of assent from the lawyer, "I want to take over the best farm I can lay my two hands on."

Mr. McBain rang for his secretary and called for Mr. Howard's papers. He was glad to see the young mountaineer taking some interest in his property at last.

After McBain had looked over the papers he cleared his throat and said uncertainly: "There's Major Sam Meed's farm over in Shelby county. It's been practically yours for a year now, but I've held off, trying to give the old man a break. You don't like to foreclose in a case like that."

"A case like what?" asked Jeff Howard coldly.

Mr. McBain took off his glasses and held them in his hand. He looked thoughtful and regretful. He was trying to think of what he could say to induce his client to forget old Major Meed's farm. He did not realize until too late that he had said the wrong thing entirely.

"Major Meed is as fine an old gentleman as you'll find in Kentucky," he explained, not dreaming of the bitter feeling in the young man's heart. "His people were aristocrats, yet simple and genuine. His family has held this farm for generations. The house has never been lived in by anyone not named Meed."

"What's the house like?" asked Jeff Howard. It was significant that he asked about the house, rather than the land.

"It's situated about five miles beyond Shelby on the Louisville pike," Mr. McBain replied. "A big red brick house, sitting about a quarter-mile off the pike beyond a woodland. I believe it's considered pretty good, architecturally."

Jeff Howard filled his briar pipe, lit it and took several deep puffs. "Get in touch with Meed's lawyer," he said briefly, "or his banker—whoever's handlin' it. I'd like to take over the place as soon as possible. I'm lookin' for a suitable place to live. This location sounds all right to me."

Mr. McBain shook his head. "I wouldn't advise it, Howard. I wouldn't advise it at all. You'd find yourself in a hornet's nest of ill will. The entire county would be down on you. Major Meed's a sort of institution in that neck of the woods. People respect him, love him—"

"But not enough to pay his debts for him," interrupted Jeff Howard. "Well, I don't neither. He's nothing to me. Get me the place as soon as it's legal."

"Look here, Mr. Howard," said the lawyer earnestly, "you've got a couple of other farms that would do you just as well. Maybe better. Now there's one near Berea, closer to your old home—"

Jeff flushed angrily. "Tryin' to get me back to the mountains, are you? Well, I'm not goin' back. I'm through with the tall hills. I'm settlin' in the Blue Grass, and if the snobs don't like it, then they can lump it. . . . Look here, McBain. I'll tell it to you straight. I'm sick as hell of havin' these blue-bloods and near blue-bloods crackin' their faces in a grin when they hear my hillbilly twang. Well, I'm ready to give 'em somethin' to think about. Somethin' to hate me about, if you want to put it that way—"

The lawyer tried to speak, but the angry boy brushed him aside. "I'll take the best farm I can lay my hands on. You've already admitted that's the Meed place. Well, I'm goin' to settle down on it with a horse and a shotgun and a couple of dogs. I don't need to farm. I'll let it go to ruin if I please. I'll cut down all those trees they're so stinkin' proud of and plant tobacco round the stumps. "I'll—"

As he talked on, violently but purposefully, Mr. McBain knew that the Meed case was lost. He'd have to wire the old man's lawyers, Prentiss and Elwell down at Shelby, and tell them his client meant business.

"Very well, Mr. Howard," he said formally. "If that's your last word I'll attend to the foreclosure at once. You realize, do you, that you get the house furnishings also in this case?"

"I didn't know it," answered Jeff Howard, "but I'm right glad to hear it. It'll save me trouble. I'll need suitable furniture.

He went back to his boarding house, grimly pleased with himself. He was about to humble a Blue Grass family. Maybe there'd be a girl. Like the one who had laughed at him this morning.

I believe that the dissatisfaction of young people is a good thing. . . . Just as long as our youth in American cities takes an interest in what our government does, there is every hope for the future.

ROTARIANS HEAR FINE ADDRESS

Reasons for Americas Greatness Cited by Speaker

America has proven that it can go through a period of transition without resorting to revolution or granting of special privilege to a few while keeping the masses subjected, means common in European countries, said R. H. Reade, Green Bay, in an address before the Gladstone Rotary club yesterday noon.

Today, as in years gone by, America has a higher standard of living than any place on the globe and its people have more conveniences and comforts than all of the rest of the world combined so why should we look abroad for ideas as to government, the speaker asked.

Among the reasons for vast growth and success of this ocuntry are the facts that we are a nation free from religious bigotry and intolerance where all can worship as they please; a nation of many nations; a nation based on liberty and freedom; a nation using its freedom to build a great cooperative society, the speaker said in closing.

BANQUET SEATS AVAILABLE NOW

Van Wagoner Will Speak in Manistique Wednesday Night

An enthusiastic reception is planned in Manistique Wednesday for Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, and his party when they come here to participate in the highway dedication program. The dedication is being held in Delta, Menominee, and Schoolcraft counties with civic organizations of all three counties cooperating.

Tickets for the banquet which will be held Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Legion cottage are now on sale at the A. S. Putnam and Co. eastside and westside stores and at the City drug store. As the seating capacity of the cottage is limited and a large out of town delegation is expected. Local residents are advised to purchase tickets at once. Mr. Van Wagoner will be the principal speaker at the banquet.

The Manistique Chamber of Commerce is arranging the local dedication program in appreciation of the completion of concrete pavement this year which filled in the gaps between Menominee and Manistique, a distance of approximately 125 miles.

W. B. Thomas, secretary of the local C of C, said yesterday, "Everyone should join in this highway dedication. It will be a fine gesture of showing our appreciation of good roads and also our manifest indication of genuine hopes that the excellent achievements will continue."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH TAKING YOUR OWN PICTURE ONCE IN A WHILE?

How to prove, when there is no witness, that you were telling the truth. You snapshoot yourself and the fish with a self-timer right on the spot.

HOW often have you opened your snapshot album to view, once more, treasured pictures you have taken of groups of friends or of the family, and closed it with a feeling of regret that you did not appear in these pictures yourself? Or, how often when you are showing somebody snapshots you took on a memorable occasion, do you hear the remark, "Where were you all this time?" Modestly you reply, "Why, I was just the man behind the camera. Somebody had to take the pictures." But really wouldn't you like to have been in those pictures? Of course, you would.

Obviously, one solution of this difficulty is to let some one else use your camera on these occasions and take some pictures with you in them. Good enough except that that somebody else—Dad or whoever it may be—is missing from them just as you were missing from the others.

There is another answer to this problem and a perfect one. Get a self-timer, which is the name for an attachment which permits most cameras other than the box type to take pictures unattended. It is an inexpensive accessory that fits on the metal button at the end of the cable release which operates the shutter. In the manner of an alarm clock, the mechanism of this gadget may be set to "go off" after a time interval, whereupon it presses the button and releases the shutter. Meantime, you have taken your place in the picture and are looking your prettiest awaiting the snap.

Some cameras have a self-timer incorporated in the shutter. Of course, you must have the camera on a firm support. In the picture to the left above, the camera is fastened with a clamp having a tripod socket. You prepare for the picture by focusing in the usual way and using the same stop opening and shutter speed you would use ordinarily. If you have placed your subjects quite close to the camera, see that there is a particular space in the group for you to enter and don't fail to occupy precisely that space, else you will blanket somebody or, if the space is at the side, you may find in the print that you have lost an arm or so.

Nothing prevents you from taking a picture of yourself alone if you feel that way—which suggests one very important use for the self-timer. Ever go fishing alone and wish there were somebody to take your picture holding up that whopper at the actual scene of the catch? Or, do you always buy one at the fish store?

Escanaba Teams Prepare For Next Grid Games

SAULT TO PLAY ESKYMOS HERE

Parochials Will Travel to Manistique on Saturday

Disappointed but not discouraged, both Escanaba football teams, Escanaba high school and St. Joseph, have returned to practice this week in preparation for their games Saturday. The Eskymos will entertain Sault Ste. Mario, traditional rivals, on the local gridiron Saturday while the Parochials will travel to Manistique to meet a classy Green and White combination.

The Menominee defeat was a bad blow to the title hopes of the Eskymos and they are now setting out to finish their season in great shape by wiping up all comers. The Eskymos played good ball at Menominee but, as usual, not good enough to beat Menominee. The boys blew several good scoring opportunities, some by poor generalship, some by inadeptness at handling passes and still another by a penalty.

Nordberg's crew, however, has already forgotten the Menominee game and is concentrating on the invasion of the Blue Devils. Coach [illegible]rane's outfit, after a rather slow start, is coming along fast and developing into a very dangerous team. Local fans who have seen them play report that they have a husky line, one that will match the Eskymos in size, and one of the classiest runners in the peninsula in the person of Benson, fourth of a family of brothers, all famed Soo athletes.

Coach George Carr's St. Joseph gridders absorbed considerable punishment against Gladstone but are ready for the Manistique onslaught. Carr expects some of his cripples who were unable to get into the Gladstone game will be back in shape for Saturday. On their return, the Parochial coach bases his hopes of stemming the Emerald's famed aerial attack. Despite the rather one-sided defeat at the hands of Gladstone, Carr was not critical of the boys' work. He felt that the team put up a good game with so many of his regulars on the sidelines. New plays will be given the team this week in an effort to shake some of the light backs loose. Carr cannot depend upon a smashing game this year because his backfield lacks beef so he has to rely on the open game.

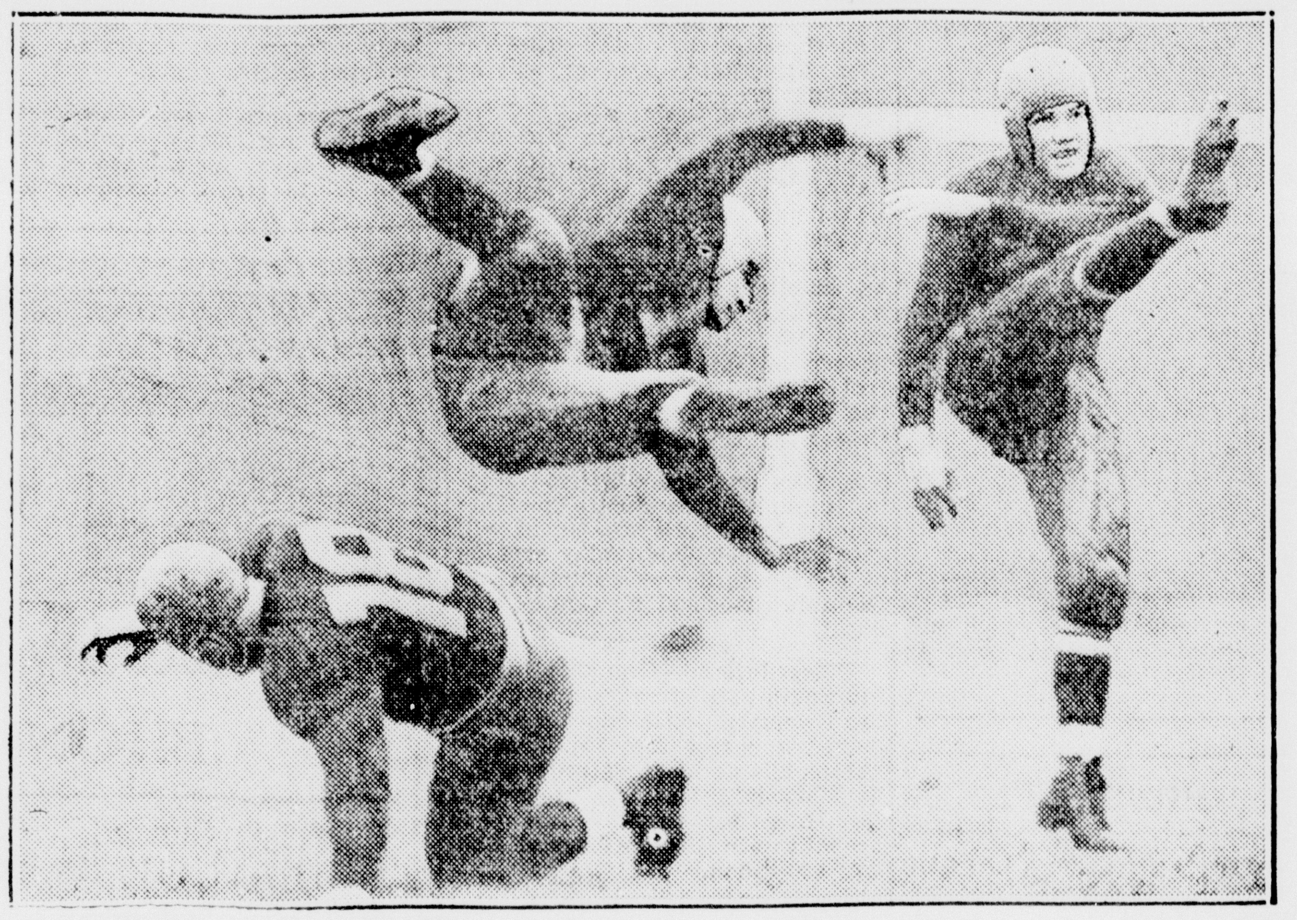
Gerarden To Fight For Welterweight Title At Negaunee

Scrappy Gerarden, protege of Stan Luskin's gym of this city, will abttle for the welterweight title of the Upper Peninsula against Mike Kenjola of Iron Mountain in a boxing card at Negaunee Friday night.

Gerarden has fought several fights in the Marquette area and has won himself a wide following of fans in that part of the peninsula.

Other members of the local stable who will take part in the Negaunee boxing show will be Henry Beauchamp and Kayo Dube.

Ambitious Illini Upset by Blocking Trojan Back



An unidentified University of Illinois football player, rushing in to block the punt of Davie Davis, Southern California quarterback, was unceremoniously upset by Coye Dunn, in an intersectional battle at Champaign. Southern California held the upper hand throughout the game in trouncing the Illini, 24 to 6. (Associated Press Photo)

GOPHERS NEXT FOR MICHIGAN

Wolverines Lose Jess Garber for Battle With Minnesota

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 12 (AP)—With Jess Garber, veteran guard, out of the lineup with an injured hand, Coach Harry G. Kipke ran his Michigan varsity through a drill today to prep them for a meeting with Minnesota's thundering herd next Saturday.

The open berth lay between Forrest Jordan and Bob Brennan, both sophomores, with Kipek undecided which will get the call. He declined to discuss other possible changes, but said the first string team would scrimmage tomorrow and the remainder of the week would be spent in developing plays, with emphasis on speed.

Kipke spent today working on an aerial attack, with some of the receivers showing well. Bill Barclay and Soph Elmer Gedeon looked especially good as they ran down under Stark Ritchie's tosses.

The second string scrimmaged the frosh squad today.

Captain Matt Patanelli, veteran end, again watched practice from the sidelines. His leg injury was aggravated in last week's contest with Indiana, but he probably will be ready by Saturday trainers said.

Garber's hand was stepped on in the Indiana encounter, and seven stitches were required to close the cleat wound.

Joshua Reynolds, Thomas Edison, Ludwig von Beethoven, and Harriett Martineau were among deaf persons whose lives were notably successful.

Law Of Averages On Trail Of Minnesota

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, Oct 12 (AP)—That ancient force which never has lost a decision—the law of averages—is stalking Minnesota's great gridiron victory string.

Today, still twitching after Saturday's close call against Nebraska, the Golden Gophers boasted a record of 19 consecutive triumphs—only one short of Notre Dame's modern record. But, before the close of the campaign, Minnesota, starting with Michigan Saturday, must meet five Big Ten foes and the University of Texas, and the old law, which catches them all sooner or later, will be working for the opposition.

The Wolverines, who gave the Gophers their last beating in the final battle of the 1932 season, do not figure to stop Minnesota's short of 20 victories Nor does Iowa or Wisconsin. There is plenty of danger, however, in Purdue, Northwestern and Texas, and the law of averages may collaborate with any of them to halt the glorious march.

Well Timed Pass

The numbers came within 68 seconds of catching up with Minnesota Saturday. Although they had outplayed a fine Nebraska eleven most of the way, the Gophers appeared stuck with a scoreless tie. However, Bud Wilkinson tossed a beautifully timed lateral pass to Andy Uram, who raced 75 yards to a touchdown, just in time to keep the winning streak intact.

Nore Dame found out about the law of averages not once, but twice. The fighting Irish of 1919 and 1920 won 18 straight and added two more in 1921 before Iowa put on the brakes with a thrilling 10 to 7 victory. Starting 10 years later, in 1929, Notre Dame, under the late Knute Rockne, won 19 games in a row, and made it 20 in 1931 under Hunk Anderson.

That long string was snapped in the second game of 1931 in the rain and mud at Soldier field when Northwestern fought the Irish to a scoreless tie Notre Dame prolonged its term without defeat to 26 games by adding five more before Southern California scored that dramatic, last-period 16 to 14 triumph at South Bend.

Bernie Bierman's great machines already have matched Notre Dame's 26 games without a defeat, but have four ties in the collection. The current string of triumphs started with a 6 to 3 decision over Wisconsin in the last game of the 1933 campaign

Big Ten Briefs About Football

Bloomington, Ind. (AP)—Using trick formations for the first time this season, Coach "Bo" McMillin drove his Indiana gridders through a long offensive drill today as he sarted practice for the intersectional game with Nebraska at Lincoln next Saturday.

Lafayette, Ind. (AP)—Coach Noble Kizer, satisfied with their showing against Wisconsin Saturday, had had the Purdue regulars on the practice field for a few minutes today running through formations.

South Bend, Ind. (AP)—Coach Elmer Layden began preparing his Notre Dame varsity footballers today for their game with Wisconsin next Saturday, faced with the necessity of finding a new fullback. Both Larry Danbom and Steve Miller were confined to the college infirmary with injuries suffered Saturday in the game against Washington university of St. Louis. It was indicated that either Ed Simonich of Ironwood, Mich., or Ben Binowski of Chicago would draw the starting fullback assignment against the Badgers.

Chicago (AP)—Chicago's battered Maroons will take on Purdue Saturday without the services of Fred Lehnhardt, regular right halfback. Examination today of an ankle injury disclosed that Lehnhardt suffered a sprained ligament against Butler and probably will be out of action for two weeks.

Evanston, Ill. (AP)—Northwestern's Wildcats came out of the North Dakota game in good shape and Coach Lynn Waldorf said today he expects his squad to be at full strength for Ohio State next Saturday.

Minneapolis (AP)—Minnesota's varsity was given a respite from its football labors today following its victory over Nebraska. The squad looked at movies of last Saturday's contest and listened to a short chalk talk by Bernie Bierman. Lou Milder, tackle, reported a slightly fractured great toe and Quarterback Bud Wilkinson was treated for a charley horse, the only injuries of the Nebraska game. Both will be ready for action tomorrow, trainers said.

Madison, Wis. (AP)—Coach Harry Stuhldreher, an All-American quarterback in his Notre Dame days, played with his University of Wisconsin third team in scrimmage with the freshmen today. Stuhldreher acted as a blocking back and pass receiver.

Champaign, Inn. (AP)—With the Illinois varsity still tired from its drubbing Saturday by Southern California, Coach Bob Zuppke put his squad through only an hour of signal drill today.

Iowa Cit, Ia. (AP)—Three coaches worked with Iowa linemen as Coach Ossie Solem himself drilled backs on forward pass defense today, as the Hawkeyes prepared for the homecoming football battle with Illinois Saturday.

Columbus, O. (AP)—Coach Francis A. Schmidt indicated today he might add a power attack to Ohio State university's "razzle dazzle" football offensive as he elevated two backfield second-stringers to the varsity and put them through a tough two-hour workout in preparing for a rugged foe in Northwestern.

GROOS DEFEATS PERKINS, 5 TO 2

Greenless Hurls No-Hit Game; Errors Allow Runs In Ninth

Ben Greenless, Groos hurler, pitched a no-hit game here Sunday afternoon against Perkins but lost a shut out after two men were out in the ninth when two runs were scored on two errors. The final score was 5 to 2 in favor of the Papermakers

Manager Rowell, of the Furblo Ventilating company of Hermansville, presented the Groos team with $25 prize for first place in the south division, give Bark River $15 for second and Dodgers $10 for third place. Fobs were presented to the Groos players by Gorden Bent.

Greenless pitched a heady, effective game throughout and would have had a no-hit, no-run game had it not been for the errors of his mates He had plenty of stuff on the ball as he disposed of 13 Perkins batters via strike out route.

The Papermakers won the game in the first inning when they touched Siko, Perkins hurler for three runs. They added another in the second and the final in the third. With a five run lead, they were content to ride home to victory behind the fine pitching of Greenless .

Derouin, Papermakers third sacker, and Roman, left fielder, led the hitters of the day with two singles Greenless, also of Groos, got a double, the only extra base hit of the game.

Siko, Perkins pitcher, allowed but six hits and fanned ten batters.

Temple Owls Beat Boston College By 14-0 With Passes

Boston, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Temple Owls forward passed themselves into a 14-0 victory over Boston college before 25,000 today at Fenway park.

Two aerials that wiped out 45 yards enabled Gordon Smith to score from the four-yard line in the second period.

Late in the final quarter a 49-yard heave, Gus Macali to Vic Lewis put the ball in position for Macali to drive over from Boston's three-yard line.

Moody and Budge Doubles Champs

Berkeley, Calif., Oct. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, paired with red-haired Donald Budge, won the Pacific coast mixed doubles championship today with a 6-4 third set victory over Helen Hull Jacobs, Wimbledon champion, and Henry Culley of Santa Barbara.

The game score was knotted at 5-7, 10-8 as darkness halted play yesterday.

It has been estimated that the national income of the United States is now between 60 and 70 billion dollars.

SPILLING the DOPE

BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

The situation is clearing. With the mist and fog of early season set-ups out of the way, peninsula football fans are beginning to see potential champions and, today, the field has narrowed down to two teams—Menominee and Ishpeming. The defeat of these two teams in any of their remaining games will throw the whole situation into an uproar gain but for the time being at least, Menominee and Ishpeming are the teams to be watched.

—O—

Menominee, by virtue of slightly tougher opposition, is classed a little higher than Ishpeming. Although they apparently showed no marked superiority over the Eskymos in their game Saturday, the Maroons, nevertheless, succeeded in kicking the ball over the goal posts for three points — and three points mean victory in any man's language. Menominee's remaining opposition is not of the type to let them run up track-meet scores.

—O—

One of their toughest games will be next Saturday when they travel to Iron Mountain. Iron Mountain has about as much an Indian sign on Menominee as Menominee has on Escanaba. A much inferior Iron Mountain team always seems able to defeat Menominee—and that is true with Menominee and Escanaba. As if meeting Iron Mountain were not bad enough news, the Maroons will meet a good Marquette team on October 31 in a game that will give peninsula dopsters an opportunity of comparing Marquette county football with that played in other sections.

—O—

Ishpeming's undefeated record is also far from being safe, despite their showing thus far. They play a return game at Marquette next Saturday that may prove their downfall. In their first meeting of the season two weeks ago at Ishpeming, the Hematites took a close 6-0 victory from the Redmen and Rushton's crew will be a hard team to beat on their own field. If their slippery back, Wally Alexander, who is hailed as one of the niftiest ball carriers in Marquette history, ever breaks loose once, it may mean defeat for Ishpeming.

—O—

If the Hematites do get past Marquette, they still have to contend with their old nemisis, Gladstone, on October 24. The Upbays have a well balanced team that will be plenty hard to beat by the time the Ishpeming game rolls around. Gladstone has been unusually successful against Ishpeming in past years and they may be the team to tumble the Hematites from their position on top of the football world.

ITALIAN TAKES 300 MILE RACE

Tazio Nuvolari Victor In Vanderbilt Cup Road Classic

BY PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Roosevelt Raceway, Lon Island, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—Over and around hell's hairpin roared Tazio Nuvolari, the "Madman of Modena," to sweep to a brilliant but easy victory today in the 300-mile George Vanderbilt Cup race before 60,000 wind blown spectators.

As death took a holiday, the spectacular 47-year-old Italian streaked his 12-cylinder Alfa Romeo car into the lead before the first of 75 laps was traversed over the dangerous Roosevelt speedway, a track that required 1,200 turns and twists. He never was headed except for a brief pause for gas and oil during the 27th lap.

Nuvolari's time for the distance was four hours, 32 minutes and 44.04 seconds, an average speed of 65.998 miles per hour. That gave him a total elapsed time lead of 11 minutes and 57 seconds over Jean Wimille daring son of France, who finished second.

Another Italian Third

Third, the victim of a heartbreaking sputtering, red hot motor with second money all but clinched, came Count Antonio Brivio of Italy. Raymond Sommer of France and Freddy McAvoy, Australia, finished fourth and fifth, with Mauri Rose of Columbus, Ohio, leading the badly outclassed Americans in sixth position.

Bringing up the rear in the prize money division came Wild Bill Cummings of Indianapolis, Philippe Etancelin of France, Deacon Lizt of Dubois, Pa., and Chuck Tabor, Orange N. J., in 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th places, respectively.

Over the pretzel-like speedway, reputed to be the most dangerous road course yet devised, not one serious accident occurred as the cars careened and sped on. Of the 45 starters, 30 finished or were flagged off the raceway at the end.

Nuvolari, whose blazing trail of oil and daring now has accounted for 86 victories in 144 auto races in Europe and America, didn't give his field a chance as he settled in his seat, hooked the turns, then passed his rivals like so many boys in kiddy cars down the long straightaway.

Stops Only Twice

So consistent was the tiny, hard-faced "Madman from Modena" that he stopped only twice for gas and repairs and captured 36 out of 37 lap prizes, running his cash earnings for the victory to $23,600, of which $20,000 was for winning the race.

It was Italy from flagfall to finish as Nuvolari and Brivio streaked toward their goal. Only Brivio was able to snatch the lead away from his courageous countryman. That change came during the 27th lap when Nuvolari left the track for his pit. Almost a half lap, or two miles behind him at the time, Brivio sped past him but before the 28th lap was over Nuvolari was back in front to stay as his motor whined steadily onward.

But for accidents, Italy might have made it an one-two-three finish. After running in third and fourth places, Giuseppe Farina, third member of the invading Alfa Romeo trio, spun into the east circle on the 27th lap, broke a steering gear and was forced out. Brivio lost second place to Wimille because of motor trouble near the end.

Col. William Ross paid $653 for a ticket to hear Jenny Lind sing, and then did not attend the concert.

Bachman Gives Team No Breathing Spell as Squad Returns

East Lansing, Oct. 12 (AP)—Michigan State's football squad found no time today to bask in the sun of its perfect record of three straight victories as the coaches warred on erratic play.

SZASZ

Head Coach Charley Bachman warned that Missouri, scheduled for the homecoming game here Saturday will be no team to fool with. Missouri also has an undefeated record, although Kansas State held it to a 7-7 tie last week-end.

Bachman demanded co-ordination of the backs and ends, lack of which was apparent at Carnegie Tech last Saturday despite State's 7-0 victory. On five separate occasions State played like champions in the middle of the field, but let its attack fizzle near the goal line. Bachman found his backs frequently failing to notice eligible pass receivers who were out in the open and demanded prompt correction.

He campaigned, too, against poor blocking that should have opened the way for ball carriers. He pointed to two sophomores, Steve Szasz, a halfback, and George Kovacich, fullback, as outstanding exceptions who really showed ability and willingness to cut down opponents.

Another sophomore who was outstanding was Ernest Bremer, an end, who played heads-up football.

One of State's problems appeared to have been solved—at center. Norbert Miknavitch, who started against Carnegie, came through unscathed and with a creditable performance. Injuries have hampered Vincent Vandenberg and Sam Ketchman, the other pivot men.

The men who did most of the work Saturday had a comparatively light workout tonight, learning new plays and brushing up on forward passing and punting. For the others, however, Bachman prescribed a long, hard scrimmage.

Former Rock Boy Scores Twice But Rice Lake Loses

Rice Lake, Wisconsin, Oct. 10.—Despite the efforts of Harold Brehmer, speedy left halfback who transferred this fall from Rock (Mich.) high school, Rice Lake lost a heart breaker here Friday night to Cumberland, 13-12.

Brehmer led a spirited last half comeback after Coach Sanger's crew left the field at half time with the score 13-0 against them. Early in the third quarter, Brehmer scampered off left tackle for 50 yards and a touchdown. In the final period, he scored on a smash from the two yard line. Failure of Rice Lake's two attempts at extra points cost them at least a tie, and possibly the victory.

Delta Supervisors Get Report from Board of Trustees

Construction of a suitable shelter building at Pioneer Trail park is a project expected to start in the near future, according to the annual report of the board of park trustees of Delta county, as submitted to the county board of supervisors Monday. The report, covering the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, is as follows:

At the October, 1935, meeting, your honorable board appropriated $500 to aid in constructing a shelter in Pioneer Trail park. Plans have been drawn and a proposal submitted to the WPA covering a structure estimated to cost $11,629.88, of which amount $749.45 constitutes the sponsor's share. It appears reasonably sure the application will be approved and work started in the near future. We respectfully request an appropriation of $249.45 to make up the difference between the $500 already appropriated and the estimated cost of the sponsor's share.

For the past two years $1,000 per year has been appropriated for the maintenance of the county park system. This amount is barely sufficient to take care of operating expenses, consisting mainly of a caretaker's salary, leaving no funds for the construction of new benches, tables, roads, or many other improvements which should be made from time to time.

The board of park trustees was indebted to the road commission on January 1, 1936, in the amount of $5,342.84. This indebtedness was incurred from 1932 to 1934 in the connection with the use of welfare labor on the advice of the board of supervisors with the understanding that the county road fund would be later reimbursed from county funds. As a matter of fact, appropriation in an amount sufficient to reduce this indebtedness was made but at a later session the amount was transferred to some other fund. In order to retire this indebtedness and to maintain the parks, we recommend that an appropriation of $2,500 per year be made which will be sufficient to take care of the operation of the parks and some improvements, leaving enough to gradually reduce the outstanding indebtedness.

Following is the statement of expenditures for county parks from October 1, 1935, to October 1, 1936:

West Virginia Going For Roosevelt, Claim

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1936, Escanaba Daily Press)

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 10—Strange things are happening in West Virginia—things that make one wonder if "it can happen here" after all.

A United States senator, a Democrat, a man who is not himself a candidate for reelection this year, but is anxious to present the issues to the voters of the state of West Virginia, is denied an opportunity to do so in the town of Fairmont and is practically forced to abandon his scheduled speech.

Forced by whom? Senator Rush Holt, the victim of the suppression, says certain labor agitators and certain WPA workers conspired to break up his meeting. Mr. Holt has been exposing WPA scandals in the state.

"I charge," said Senator Holt to me, "that persons who were brought into town on WPA trucks—I have the license numbers—helped break up my meeting. Mr. Miley, who is president of district 31 local union, had a conference with Senator Neely before the meeting. Mr. Miley was conspicuous in his leadership of the persons who refused to let me speak. I charge that Mr. Neely knew it and sanctioned it."

Blot On State

Whoever was responsible, the fact remains that the incident is a blot on the state of West Virginia. The Charleston Gazette, an ardent supporter of Mr. Roosevelt, has this to say editorially about it:

"This newspaper has had no part in the row between Senator Rush Holt and the WPA.

"But we do believe in free speech.

"Hence, we believe that, if admirers of the WPA intend to conduct a campaign of suppression of this right against Senator Holt, they will be doing themselves and their cause a great harm.

"As a citizen and as an elected high official, Senator Holt has a right to express his views in public without being subjected to a storm of boos and catcalls which make it impossible for him to be heard.

"The right of free speech in this country is a good deal more important than a row between Senator Holt and the WPA."

Not all the labor leaders agree with the tactics pursued in Fairmont. One of them took occasion to write Senator Holt to that effect. But there is a dangerous spirit rampant in this state because of the bitter feeling that labor warfare has engendered in the past.

Labor Vote Shift

The dissension is not confined to one or the other of the parties. Inside the Democratic party, for instance, is a conservative group which, in the primary election, took the measure of the candidate for governor sponsored by John L. Lewis, head of the coal miners. This has left scars, and the shift of the labor vote in the coming gubernatorial race is likely to decide it.

All sorts of talk may be heard here about deals and trades. One report is that certain Democrats aren't so much interested in the Roosevelt ticket but in getting support for the Democratic nominee for governor and are willing to trade votes for Landon in order to get votes for Homer A. Holt, the Democratic nominee for governor. Another report is that the Republicans are so eager to elect Summers Sharp as governor that they are willing to forget the national ticket.

I was informed by one prominent Democrat that in none of his speeches is Mr. Sharp mentioning Governor Landon. But upon investigation, I found that my Democratic friend has been the victim of misinformation. I talked to three persons who had heard several of Mr. Sharp's speeches and they said he had mentioned Governor Landon and devoted at least one-third of his talks to national questions.

Probably the impression arose because the newspapers are more interested in what a gubernatorial candidate says on state issues than they are on national questions and they haven't space to print all the speeches which all the candidates make.

West Virginia has a huge labor vote. It has the balance of power. If it is cast solidly for Mr. Roosevelt, he will win the state, though there is a chance that the country districts may poll an unusually heavy vote and counterbalance it. As for the labor vote, the Republicans are endeavoring to point out that, apart from the labor questions, the citizen faces hardships if present New Deal policies are continued.

"Pay Cut" Coming

Thus, in West Virginia, a pay cut is coming on January 1, ordered by the Roosevelt administration in the form of a payroll tax. At least $1,280,000 a year and possibly more will be taken out of the pockets of the coal miners for so-called "social security." But the miners cannot get any of this money back till 1942, which is a long time off.

The Democrats are in high hopes of carrying the state by 75,000 or more, which is what Mr. Roosevelt carried it by in 1932. This seems a high figure, as Governor Landon is a much stronger candidate in West Virginia than was Mr. Hoover. The fight that Senator Holt has made about extravagance and waste in the WPA has undoubtedly made an impression that will be reflected in some protest votes.

Thus, employment in West Virginia is 30 per cent above 1929 and yet there are 44,000 persons on relief. Business is booming and the Don't-want-a-change argument is being worked overtime by the Democrats, whilst the Republicans are using the who-is-going-to-pay-for-it attack to arouse anti-New Deal sentiment.

My own impression is that West Virginia might possibly go for Governor Landon by between 5,000 and 10,000 if the country vote grows in the next couple weeks and if labor divides more along party lines than appears on the surface. But if I had to appraise the situation as of today, I would say West Virginia is a Roosevelt state.
